INTRODUCTORY.

The prevailing tradition among families descended from Isaac Cummings of Ipswich (Topsfield), Mass., is that he came from Scotland, or, at least, was of Scottish descent. We have failed to find a verified notice of the ship that brought him to America, the port from which he sailed, or the date of his arrival.

The name, spelled variously, is of common occurrence in Great Britain. It appears early in France, often written Comyns. A Robert Cumine was made Earl of Northumberland in the third year of William, the Conqueror. A William Cumin was Lord Chancellor of Scotland in the time of King David, 1124. John Comyn refused to recognize the claim of Robert Bruce, and was stabbed by him in the Friar's Church. Roger Comyns was killed by the same hand. Many influential houses in the old country were of this name. It must be left to others to trace the connexions beyond the sea. On this side of the Atlantic there have been settled several lines of families bearing the name, among whom it has not been as yet possible to establish a clear line of kinship.

Among the earliest immigrants, however, was the Isaac above mentioned, and this volume is limited to the task of tracing the lineage of his descendants. The compiler became specially interested in this investigation in 1858-9, while searching records for the preparation of the Historical Manual of the South Church, Andover, Mass.; nor did his removal to California two years afterwards stop his enquiries. But he kept finding other kinsfolk who had made similar efforts. In 1883 Mrs. Aaron Cummings, of Andover, enlarged the collection pertaining to the Asa Cummings family. President Joseph Cummings, of the Northwestern University, who had caused a search to be made at Tops-

Property of the Seattle Genealogical Society

field, turned over to me his MSS. Subsequently, Hon. John Cummings, of Woburn, Mass., at whose direction a similar search had been made, placed his tables at my disposal. Later it was found that Mr. Royal Cummings had gathered and printed an account of the family of Jonathan Cummings. At Hudson, N. H., there had been family reunions among people of this descent living in that vicinity, and one promoter of these reunions, Hon. Kimball Webster, proved himself as generous a dispenser of his data as he had been a careful collector. Mention is due of similar reunions held annually in Western New York, gathering fuller information concerning the branch descended from Edward Cummings.

For the Ware, Mass., line we are indebted to Dr. John Yale and the Hon. Charles Adams. Miss Mary A. Cummings, of Tyngsboro, Mass., has been a willing and rewarding correspondent. It is a pleasure to recall the interest taken by Alice J. Cummings, of Painesville, O., and her cousin, Henry H., of Tideoute, Penn.; and by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ballou, of Providence, R. I. Some of those families which have retained the spelling, Comings, have been well served by W. A. Comings, Mr. H. H. Dewey and Mrs. Cornelius B. Bradley. Mr. Orrington L. Comings, of Chicago, after having made an extensive collection, placed it at the present compiler's disposal. Living on one of the old home sites in Topsfield, Mr. Samuel Todd was able to supplement or correct the work of others by his personal memories. The Historical Society, of that town, in volume 5 of its "Collections," 1899, printed some pages entitled, "Isaac Cummings and some of his descendants." It is due to say that Mr. A. O. Cummins, of Montpelier, Vt., has in manuscript his attempt to cover the same ground.

But where to stop in recognizing the service of so many? Let me not forget to include the Rev. Henry Cummings, Stafford, Vt.; Mrs. Anna C. Boyden, Marlboro, N. H.; Mr. Charles Cummings, Medford; Herbert R., Worcester, Mass.; Charles H., formerly at Mauch Chunk, Penn.; Emma J., of Dorchester, Mass., and Mr. George A. Gordon, of Boston. The publisher of this volume, who has now made this publication possible, giving time and money to that end, had long before been a diligent collector and contributor of information.

From other obliging correspondents who have given response to his enquiries, the compiler craves considerate judgment in cases where he may have misunderstood or inadequately reproduced what they gave him. He has availed himself liberally of the histories of those towns in which these families have had their homes or migrations. Such are especially the towns of Topsfield, Boxford, Billerica, Dunstable, Sutton, Oxford, Ware and North Brookfield, in Massachusetts. The Rev. E. R. Hodgman, author of the History of Westford, took very kindly pains to increase the knowledge obtained from that book. Other local histories much consulted are those of Hollis and Hancock, in New Hampshire, and Union, Woodstock, Paris and Norway in Maine.

A collection which has been accumulating now forty years off and on, and has been ministered to by so many and very different hands, must show both deficiencies and inequalities. Some portions of the wide and scattered field traversed have been more, and others less, fully harvested. The lines of descent have been brought down further in one branch than in others. This not from choice, but because access to the source of information has been readier here and more difficult there. In particular, it will be noticed that the ninth and tenth generations do not appear in proportionate fertility.

The number of descendants, having the name Cummings and their births given in this volume is 4785. The number of persons of other names who have married Cummingses, tabulated here, is 2325. The descendants of other names, mention of whom is made in these pages, usually exceed those having the ancestral name. This book, then, registers at least 10,000 descendants of Isaac Cummings.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. ISAAC CUMMINGS appears on a list of the "Commoners" of Ipswich, Mass., on the last day of the year 1641. He is said to have had, as early as July 1638, a planting lot in "Reedy Marsh," and a house lot in town. An old record is quoted in Essex Co. Hist. & Gen. Register, to wit: "Whereas Isaac Comings...Sold Andrew Hodges of this town all the said seven acres of land, more or less, lying near highway to Jeffries Neck, 1639, 26, (6)." The name appears on a list of Freemen in Watertown, 1642. In 1652, Samuel Symonds and his wife Martha sell him in consideration of £30, 150 acres "joining partly on Daniel Clark's land." This Clark was an early settler of Topsfield.¹ Mr. Samuel Todd, who married one of the Cummings descendants, and who had given much attention to this research, once wrote me: "There is evidence that the first Isaac owned considerable land on the west side of Howlet's (then Winthrop's) brook, pretty near two miles N. W. of the old Cummings place on this side of the river." "One hundred acres lying on the westerly side and fifty acres on the easterly side," so says Historical Collections, Vol. V. of Topsfield Historical Society.

In 1666 he was constable, and his son Isaac was his deputy, and in a deposition he states his age to be 65. The same year he was assessed 4s. 7d. to pay the town's indebtedness. He was deacon of the church, and in 1676, at least, moderator of the town meeting. No mention remains of his wife nor of her name. She was not living when his will was made, May 8, 1677. It is on file in the probate office, but unrecorded.

Will of Isaac Sr:

"The last will and testament of Isaac Comins Senier. I, being sencable of my approaching desolution, being at present weak in body yet perfect in my understanding, having by the grace of God bene helped to provid for my future state in another world: doe now in ordering of what God hath been pleased to bestow upon me of the blessings of this life, take care and order that, in the first place, my debts be duly paid. nextly I doe by this my last will and testament confirme to my son Isaac the ten acres of division land, on the south side of the great river, be it more or less: nextly, I do give unto my son, John Juet, ten pounds, part in Cattel & part in household goods: nextly, I doe will and bequeath to my grandson, Isaac, the son of my son Isaac, one year old hefer, one little sow, the Indian corn which he hath planted for himself and the flax which he hath sown.

Item, I doe give unto him my chest 2d in bigness with the lock and key: item, my history book with such books as are his own, viz. a bible and testament. item, I doe give him ten pounds to be paid at seventeen years of age in country pay. item, I doe give my son, John Pease, thirty pounds to be payd out of the stock of cattle and household goods as much as may be att present & the rest in two years. Item, I doe make my son John my sole executor and doe give unto him my house and lands, being forty acres, more or less, consisting of upland and meadow with all the privileges and emoluments thereof and apertainances thereunto belonging provided that this land shall stand bound in part and in wholl for the payment of these legacyes and in case the said legacyes shall not be payd according to my will, the land shall be sold and payment be made out of the price thereof and the remainder shall be to the executor. Item, my will further is that if any of these my children shall through discontent att what is done for them in this my will, cause trouble to arise to the executor that then there shall be nothing pay'd to him or them, but the legacy or legacyes willed to them shall return to and remain in the hands of the executor as his proper right. My desire further is that Isaac Foster and Thomas Dorman would take care that this my will be duly performed.

Dated this 8th day of the 3d mth 1677.

Thomas Dorman and Isaac Foster came before Samuel Symonds, D'y Gov'r, Maj. Gen. Denison Esq. Mr. Clarke being present at the day of the date hereof & saw the said Isaac Cummings signe public this to his last will and testament and that he was of a disposing mind as attest, Robert Lord, cler."

The inventory of the estate, made May 22d, as appraised by John Whipple and John How, and testified to by John Cummings, June 14, places the valuation at £166 1s. 6d. and the debts at £19 16s. 5d.

CHILDREN:

2. i. John, born about 1630. On the list of Freemen, 1672, his name precedes Isaac's. 1673, he testified in court to being 40 years old; in 1678, 43 (47?); in 1679, 50.
3. ii. Isaac, born about 1633. In 1692 he testified to being 60 years; in 1696, 63.
- iii. Ann, born perhaps 1629, as she was said to be 60 years of age at her death, June 29, 1689. She married, Oct. 8, 1669, John Pease, his second marriage. His father, John came in the ship Frances, from Ipswich, Eng. The son obtained a grant of land in 1681 in Springfield, Mass., in the town now known as Enfield, Conn. He was a surveyor and laid out the plan of that village. He died there July 8, 1689. By his first wife, Mary, he had five children. She died Jan. 5, 1668. (Pease Genealogy). By the second marriage there were:
 1. James, born Oct. 23, 1670, married 1693, Hannah Harmon who died 1748, and had one son and six daughters.
 2. Isaac, born July 15, 1672, married 1691 Mindwell Osborn. Five sons and two daughters.
 3. Abigail, born Oct. 15, 1675, died July 9, 1689.
- iv. Elizabeth, born —, married Feb. 2, 1661—"same month and day of marriage of Abraham Jewett"—John Jewett, born about 1637. By deed, Feb. 23, following the marriage, Isaac Cummings conveyed to him a farm in Topsfield "for and in consideration of his marriage with my daughter, Elizabeth." She died July 9, 1679. He married second, Elizabeth Chadwell, widow of Benj. Chadwell, and only child of Joseph How of Lynn. She married second, Oct. 23, 1716, Dea. Ezekiel Jewett. John Jewett's will was dated 29 Nov. 1708. The nine children by Elizabeth Cummings were:

1. Elizabeth, born Jan. 5, 1661-2, married, May 16, 1687, John Hidden; married second, Cornelius Davis.
2. Hannah, born —, married Jan. 20, 1684-5, Joseph Plummer of Newbury.
3. Isaac, born —, married Dorcas Hovey.
4. Sarah, born May 7, 1668 in Ipswich.
5. Abigail, born Nov. 27, 1670, in Ipswich, died Aug. 3, 1672.
6. John, born Sept. 12, 1672, (Samuel in Co. records) married Elizabeth Reyner; cooper by trade, of Rowley.
7. Abigail, born Sept. 13, 1675, died Nov. 14, 1675 in Ipswich.
8. David, born April 3, 1677.
9. Mary, born May 27, 1679, published Dec. 1709 to Philip Nealand of Ipswich.

The following four are the children by the second marriage:

10. Daniel, born Nov. 12, 1680, married Elisabeth Hopkinson.
11. Jonathan, born Dec. 2, 1685, married Ann Hopkinson.
12. Dorcas, born Dec. 7, 1690.
13. Rebecca, born Dec. 7, 1690, baptized Mar. 22, 1690.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. JOHN CUMMINGS (Isaac¹) married Sarah Howlet. She was a daughter of Serg't Thos. and Alice (French) Howlet; who was commoner, 3 Mar. 1634, Repr. 1635, granted a house lot in Woburn, 1635, purchased 40 acres there, 1637, serg't 1643, ensign 1646, had one share and a half in Plum Island (Ipswich) 1666, and died, 1668 (78?) ae. 79. His wife, Alice, died June 26, 166-(6?), and he left a widow Rebekah, who died in Newbury, Nov. 1, 1680. Sarah had a brother William, at whose request, John Howlet, a nephew of Wm., deeded, May 20, 1715, 70 acres in Ipswich to her grandson, Joseph Cummings. John Cummings, (listed among the commoners, 1672) by his father's will, 1677, was made sole executor and given the "house and lands, 40 acres more or less," from which were to be paid the legacies to other heirs. In 1661, he was taxed 10s. in Rowley Village (Boxford). Four hundred acres were laid off there to him and Thomas Dorman and Robert Stiles. This was bordered on the west by the Andover line. In 1678-9, he is spoken of as "a gatherer" in Boxford of a rate "to procure powder and bullets." Both himself and wife were members of the Topsfield church and dismissed, but he "without recommendation," Dec. 6th 1685. But on the 16th of the same month he was one of seven males mentioned as having entered into covenant to form the church in Dunstable. He had become a proprietor, one of the first fourteen proprietors, of that new town, some three years before, Nov. 30, 1682. Jonathan Tyng deeded lands to him and to Isaac, John Jr., and Thomas Cummings at the same time, Jan. 29, 1683. He was selectman in 1682, and for several years town clerk. He died Dec. 1, 1700, and his wife Dec. 7, following.

Of his children, Nathaniel, Thomas, Sarah, William, Eliezer, Benjamin and Samuel are recorded in the Essex County records at Salem. The birthdays of the others are not known. As respects Isaac and Ebenezer, Fox's Dunstable says: "These two were either killed by the Indians or drowned, as they died Nov. 2, 1688, and were not buried for many days after." Mr. Kimball Webster, of Hudson, N. H., quotes from Dunstable records as follows: "Isaac Cummings, son of John and Sarah, departed the 2 Nov., and was buried the 20th Nov. 1688."

CHILDREN:

4. i. John.

- vi. Isaac, died Nov. 2, 1688.
- vii. Ebenezer, died Nov. 2, 1688.
- viii. William,)
- ix. Eliezer,) twins; born Aug. 5, 1671. William died Mar. 30, 1672.
- x. Benjamin, born Feb. 23, 1672-3.
- xi. Samuel, born Dec. 28, 1677.

3. DEA. ISAAC CUMMINGS, (Isaac) married Nov. 27, 1659, Mary Andrews, eldest daughter of Robert and Grace Andrews, of Rowley Village (Boxford). Her father is said to have come from Boxford in England, arriving in 1656. She was born about "1638." Her parents had ten children, one of whom, Joseph, was ancestor of Gov. John A. Andrew. One sister married Capt. John Peabody and another Samuel Symonds, both men of note in early New England. George Peabody of London, the philanthropist, was a descendant of Capt. John. Mrs. Mary Cummings was living in 1692, but had died before 1712.

Isaac Cummings lived in Ipswich. He was on the list of commoners, 1672. "Sergeant in Narragansett War." He held various offices in the town, moderator, surveyor, constable, selectman. He was chosen deacon of the church, 1686. The story of his experience with the minister, Rev. Thomas Gilbert, shows that he was influential before he was deacon. For the minister one day came into the pulpit, badly beside himself from drink. His speech was confused and he forgot the order of exercises. First he prayed and he sang, then he prayed again and sang. Finally, Isaac Cummings arose and requested him to stop. The deacon was not above all the influences prevailing in his time. For at the period of the witchcraft excitement he testified in court against Elisabeth How, that a mare of his was strangely affected under Elisabeth's bad influence. His testimony was corroborated by that of Isaac, his son, and of Mary, his wife. Elisabeth How was condemned, and executed in July 1692.

Isaac and Mary sold to Tobijah Perkins, July 9, 1674, "44 acres, which was all of Cummings' land, south of Howlet's brook and bounded west by Lt. Francis Peabody, south by Daniel Borman, east by land William Howlet's house is built on, with privilege to cart through Cummings' farm from this land to Winthrop's Hill." Mr. Perkins also sold 20 acres to Isaac Cummings, "furtherest deviation next to farmer Nequallis (Nichols) land." In 1686 he bought of Joseph Chaplin and wife Elizabeth, 67 acres in Rowley Village. This he deeded to his son Isaac in 1708. His homestead bounded by lands of Potter on the north and Foster on the east, of Peabody on the south and of Perkins also on the east, was deeded to his son John, Mar. 1714-5.

The following is an abstract of the will made Apr. 27, 1712, proved Jan. 19, 1721-2:

I Give son Isaac £30 which I formerly paid him; also all that parcel of land in Boxford I bo't of Jos. Chaplin, of Rowley, abt seven acres, of which I have already given him a deed.

Son John to have that land where he now dwells on the south side of the river, being 50 acres; also ten acres on south side of the river; also all my houses, buildings, &c., in consideration of what he has done for mine and my wife's support while my wife lived and in consideration that he maintain me honorably during my natural life and be at charges of my funeral. He have residue of estate and approve him executor.

To son Thomas, for whom I have done considerable already, helping him purchase land to value of £60 I have paid for him which I do will to him, his heirs &c. as also my English dictionary which is his portion.

To daughter Abigail Perly I give her £60 which I have paid, excepting a feather bed and bedstead and under bed and sett of curtains to be paid to her by my executor, also three bed-blankets.

My daughter Rebecca Howlet to have £60 which I have paid her.

To my granddaughter Lydia Cumengs, child of my son Isaac, £30 in household goods already paid her.

CHILDREN.

- i. Son, born Aug. 28, 1660, died same day.
- ii. Son, born Nov. 2, 1661, died same day.
- iii. Son, born Dec. 6, 1662, died same day.
8. iv. Isaac, born Sept. 15, 1664.
9. v. John, born June 7, 1666.
10. vi. Thomas, born June 27, 1670.
- vii. Mary, born Feb. 16, 1671-2, married probably July 14, 169- Daniel Black, son of Daniel and Faith (Bridges) born Aug. 24, 1667. She died Dec. 16, 169-. He married second, July 19, 1695, Sarah Adams. He sold, in 1696, 62 acres in Boxford and removed to York, Me. He was a weaver and had lived near what is known as Stetson's Pond, in Boxford.
- viii. Rebecca, born Apr. 1, 1674, married Jan. 13, 1695-6, (or 1694-5), Thomas Howlet, son of William and Mary (Perkins). Her father, in his will, 1712, mentions a gift to her of £60. Mr. Howlet died Feb. 10, 1713. Having no children, he had adopted Joseph Cummings, his wife's nephew. (See Capt. Joseph (20)). May 21, 1715, William Howlet speaks of her as then dwelling in a tenement upon the farm which he on certain conditions deeded to John Howlet, son of his brother Samuel. In the same document he mentions the gift of a farm "in the thick woods" to Joseph Cummings. She is said to have married second, Dec. 20, 1715, Michael Whidden, of Portsmouth, N. H.

ix. Abigail, born —, married Mar. 28, 1693-4 Samuel Perley, son of Samuel and Ruth (Trumbull) and born in Ipswich, May 28, 1667. He died in Rowley, Jan. 29, 1724-5. She died Jan. 22, 1725-6. The homestead in Rowley was owned very lately at least by a descendant, David E. Perley. It is situated between Linebrook parish and Georgetown.

1. Abigail, born Aug. 8, 1695, died young.

2. Susannah, born Nov. 19, 1697, married Nov. 15, 1715, Samuel Stickney of Rowley.

3. Abigail, born July —, 1700, married Nov. 21, 1719, Aaron Jewett of Ipswich, born June 13, 1699. She died July 12, 1773.

4. David, born Oct. 25, 1702, married June 18, 1729, Elizabeth Jewett, of Rowley, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Raynor) and born in Rowley May 30, 1708. He married, second, Sept. 22, 1768, Mrs. Sarah Summers. He died Sept. 1787. She died 1790.

5. Patience, born Mar. 1704-5, married Apr. 17, 1735, Jeremiah Harriman, of Rowley, son of Jonathan and Margaret (Wood) born Sept. 22, 1709 and died in Rowley Jan. 30, 1753. She died May 20, 1777. 4 children.

x. Stebbings, born Feb. 27, 1680, died July 3, 1706, "by hand of the Indians."

THIRD GENERATION.

4. JOHN CUMMINGS (John², Isaac¹) married Sept. 13, 1680, Elisabeth, daughter of Samuel and Hannah (Bracket) Kinsley, of Billerica, Mass. Hannah Bracket, daughter of Capt. Richard and Alice, was baptised Nov. 4, 1634, in Boston. He is probably the John who is designated as "Serg't Cummings," and was one of a small garrison in Dunstable established Dec. 25, 1702, under command of Lt. Col. Jonathan Tyng. It is usually stated that it was the garrison at his own house which was assaulted, July 3, 1706, by a party of two hundred Mohawk Indians. His house stood on the right hand of the road from Dunstable to the present town of Tyngsborough, about a half mile from the former place. The stories of the attack are not harmonious in all particulars. It seems to be agreed that there was a company of soldiers in the garrison at the time and that they were surprised. "At sunset a Mr. Cummings and his wife went out to milk their cows and left the gate open. The Indians who had advanced undiscovered, started up, shot Mrs. Cummings dead ('Goody Cummings died July 3; 1706, at night.') upon the spot, and wounded her husband who had his arm broken, but was so fortunate as to reach the woods while the Indians were engaged in the house. That night he lay in a swamp in the northerly part of Tyngsborough, about a quarter of a mile west of the great road, and a few rods south of the state line. The next day he arrived at the garrison near Tyngsborough Village." (1. N. H. Hist. Coll. 133.) He is spoken of as selectman in 1711 and in the same year the house of Mr. John Cummings was reported as one of seven fortified houses in Dunstable, having two families, two males, two soldiers, and twenty-one persons in all. "Sarg't Cummings & Henry Farwell were deputed in 1717, Jan. 10, by vote of the town to get a minister as soon as they can." May 20th, 1725, after the sad occasion of Capt. Lovewell's defeat, both John Cummings and John Cummings Jr. joined with the Selectmen and other citizens in petitioning the Governor and Council of Mass. for protection in the defenceless condition of the community. The question arises whether the elder John had remarried. It is on record that "John Cummings of Groton, weaver, and wife Elisabeth, widow of John Sollendino, sold land in Groton, 1732." Sollendino was married 1679-80, to Elisabeth Usher, said to be the first marriage in Dunstable. He was a carpenter and helped build the meetinghouse in 1677 and a bridge over Salmon Creek, 1699. His house was one of seven garisons in 1711.

CHILDREN:

11. i. John, born July 7, 1682.
 12. ii. Samuel, born Oct. 6, 1684.
 - iii. Elisabeth, born Jan. 5, 1687, married Joseph French, son of Samuel and Sarah (Cummings) French (2, iv.) and born Mar. 10, 1687. A Captain Joseph French lived in 1717 at the first house on the main road to Tyngsborough 8 rods northerly of the State line and he was to "entertain the minister." He was selectman in 1725.
- Children of Joseph French:
1. Joseph, born July 28, 1713, married, first, Bridget, who died Oct. 29, 1735, aged 29; married, second, Elisabeth, who died Jan. 20, 1753 aged 44. He died Mar. 21, 1776, and is designated as Col. in the inscription.
 2. Sampson, born July 28, 1717, married twice and had Sampson, Jonathan, David, Aaron and Daniel. He died at Southwick, Mass., 1785.
 3. Josiah, born Feb. 24, 1723.
 4. Thomas, born June 29, 1724.
 5. Benjamin, born July 6, 1726, married Jan. 28, 1751, Molly, daughter of Col. Zaccheus and Esther Lovewell, who died Dec. 17, 1774. He married second, Feb. 1, 1776, Mrs. Mary Cummings, who died Dec. 15, 1799, aged 74. May have been widow of Jeremiah Cummings (49).
 6. Samuel, born Aug. 10, 1730.
 - iv. Sarah, born May 20, 1690, recorded in Groton, married July 14, 1720, Matthew Butman. He was of Boxford. His first wife was Faith, daughter of Thomas and Hannah (Sloan) Jewett, born 1694, whom he married in 1716 and she died Mar. 4, 1717. His children are stated in the history of Boxford to have been:

Hannah, born 1721, Ebenezer, 1724, Elisabeth, 1730, Mary, 1734 and Asa. As her brother John notified Matthew Butman on occasion of administration of estate of brother Ebenezer, 1727, the query might be raised as to her living at that time. He was constable in Boxford in 1736.

- v. Ebenezer, born Sept. 17, 1695, recorded in Woburn; died Sept. 5, 1724. He belonged to a company under command of Lieut. Jabez Fairbanks, which in the early part of 1724 searched for the Indians. Sept. 4, of the same year he joined a party of men under Lieut. Ebenezer French (his cousin) in pursuit of some Indians who had taken two neighbors captive. This party were waylaid at what is now Thornton's Ferry, on the Merrimac. Eight bodies of the killed were recovered and buried in one grave. Four rude headstones are still to be seen in the old burial place near what is now Little's station in Nashau, on one of which is the name of "Mr. Ebenezer Cummings, aged 29 years." He was not married, but seems to have been an enterprising young man, for Christopher Temple, Feb. 10, 1716, deeded several pieces of property to him near Salmon Brook, and Nashua River, and Ebenezer French deeded Feb. 17, 1717, 40 acres in Dunstable. John C. and Joseph Underwood gave the inventory of his estate as £120 3s. 9d.
- vi. Ann, born Sept. 14, 1698, married, probably, John Taylor, as in 1727 the "wife of John Taylor" was notified by administrator in the matter of the estate of Ebenezer Cummings, deceased. In 1718 John Taylor owned, besides meadow land, 188 acres of Brattle Farm, which covered the site of Dunstable village. 12 Mar. 1743, "Dea. John Taylor, Ebenezer Parkhurst and Capt. John Cummings were appointed on a committee of the town."—Loring's Bi-Centennial Oration.
- vii. Lydia, born Mar. 14, 1701, died April same year.
- 13. viii. William, born Apr. 24, 1702.

5. DEA. THOMAS CUMMINGS (John^d, Isaac^t) married Dec. 19, 1688, Priscilla Warner, daughter of John and Priscilla (Symonds) Warner, born in Ipswich Sept. 25, 1666. He was an early settler of Dunstable. Jan. 3, 1712, he was among several persons to whom William Brattle deeded some 2000 acres. In 1718, he owned 125 acres of the Brattle Farm in that town. He was a carpenter by trade. He was elected deacon of the church. He lived perhaps in the southern part of the old town of Dunstable, as his son joined in 1733 in a remonstrance against the location of the meeting house in the northern part of the town, near the old site. (Nason p. 56.) He was buried at the cemetery near what is now called Little's station, which is north of the Massachusetts state line. The inscription reads: "Here lyes the body of Deacon Thomas Cummings, aged 64 y. 17 d. Deceased Jan. 20, 1722-3." I have taken it as pretty certain that he must be the Thomas who was in Boston for several years, for whom William Mumford, stone-cutter, became surety, July 19, 1694. Two children's births are on record there to Thomas and Priscilla. During the Indian disturbances, many of the inhabitants of Dunstable were obliged to find refuge elsewhere. In 1696, two-thirds of the settlers had fled, and in 1699 only 20 heads of families remained.

CHILDREN.

- i. Priscilla, born October 1, 1689.
- ii. Mary, born Apr. 25, 1692, married Lieut. Oliver Farwell, son of Henry and born 1691. He was killed by the Indians at Thornton's Ferry in the same attack as that in which Lt. Ebenezer French and Ebenezer Cummings were killed, Sept. 5, 1724. He was brother of Josiah, the only survivor of that attack, and who was Lieut. under Capt. John Lovewell in the famous fight at Pequawket, May 8, 1725, and being wounded, died on the 11th day after.
 1. Mary, born May 8, 1716.
 2. Oliver, born Nov. 19, 1717, married Abigail, who died Aug. 18, 1789, aged 68. He died Oct. 12, 1808, in Dunstable. Constable, 1743.
 3. Benjamin, born May 14, 1720, died May 20, 1772. Selectman in Dunstable, 1755.
 4. Sarah, born May 8, 1724.
- iii. Thomas, born Oct. 24, 1694, birth recorded in Boston; died June 2, 1696.
- iv. Sarah, born Sept. 15, 1696, birth recorded in Boston. One record makes a Sarah Cummings married to Benjamin Parker, of Needham, but according to Needham marriages as given in N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, LVI. 37, Mary Cummings married May 7, 1727, Benjamin Parker.
- v. Ann, born Feb. 6, 1699.

- vi. Thomas, born Apr. 10, 1701. Administered with his mother his father's estate, 1725-6.
- 14. vii. Jonathan, born July 3, 1703.
- 15. viii. Ephraim, born May (Mar.) 10, 1706.
- ix. Samuel, born Apr. 12, 1708.

6. NATHANIEL CUMMINGS (John², Isaac¹) married Abigail Parkhurst of Chelmsford. He was early settled in Dunstable. He is put down as one among the twenty heads of families contributing to the wood-rate for the minister in 1699. In 1718, he signed a paper as one of ten proprietors of Brattle Farm, owning 108 acres. In 1725, he petitioned with others to Governor and Council for protection against Indians. His widow was living, Feb. 3, 1729, when her son, John, gave a bond to support. In 1720 he was one of four persons, for whom pews were made in the meeting-house.

CHILDREN:

- 16. i. John, born Jan. 14, 1695. Fox makes it 1698.
- 17. ii. Nathaniel, born Sept. 8, 1699.
- 18. iii. Eliezer, born Oct. 19, 1701.
- iv. Joseph, born May 26, 1704.

7. ABRAHAM CUMMINGS (John², Isaac¹) married Feb. 28, 1686-7, Sarah Wright, of Woburn. The marriage was by Rev. Jabez Fox. She was daughter of Dea. Joseph and Elizabeth (Hassell) Wright and born Feb. 25, 1669-70. His children's births are recorded in Woburn, with the exception of Josiah's, which is recorded in Dunstable. He was a contributor to the wood-rate there in 1699, when there were but twenty heads of families to contribute.

CHILDREN:

- 19. i. Abraham, born Oct. 7, 1690.
- 20. ii. Joseph, born Sept. 1, 1692.
- iii. Sarah, born Feb. 10, 1693-4.
- 21. iv. Jacob, born Jan. 3, 1695.
- 22. v. Josiah, born July 12, 1698.
- 23. vi. Eleazer, born Apr. 9, 1704.

8. ISAAC CUMMINGS (Isaac², Isaac¹) married Dec. 25, 1688, Alice Howlet of Boxford (daughter of Thomas). He married second, Nov. 23, 1696, Frances Sherwin, of Boxford. She survived her husband, whose will was proven Aug. 18, 1746. She probably is the Frances spoken of as having died in Newbury, Mar. 13, 1770. He was a farmer in Ipswich. His first wife, Alice, with her sister, Mary, wife of Thomas Hazen, received by will of their grandfather, Thomas Howlet, Sr., 100 acres of land in Ipswich, in "the thick woods." That will was dated Nov. 1, 1677. The land was deeded to them by William Howlet, executor, Apr. 4, 1687. Hazen and wife sold their half to Isaac and Alice Cummings, Oct. 10, 1693, for £80. This estate was bounded by "Salstonstall's" and Samuel Howlet's farms. In 1721 Isaac bought of John Goodhue, for £78, 13½ acres "on the edge of the thick woods," on Ipswich river, bounded on Thomas Lamson's meadow and on Mr. Hart's. He and his wife were dismissed to Ipswich church, 1721, from church in Topsfield. He sold his Rowley village land, 67 acres, to John Chadwick, Oct. 3, 1717, for £103. June 28, 1726, a division was made between Isaac and his son, Isaac, Jr., of the 138 acres they owned, "bounded on Salstonstalls, E., on Samuel Hart, partly on said Cummings, Sr., N. on Joseph Cummings and Dea. John Howlet, W. on Ipswich River and partly on Joseph Cummings'." He bequeathed to his son, Isaac, the John Goodhue land, above mentioned, and 2½ acres of woodland, lying by Smith's land, formerly Salstonstall's; to his widow, as long as she remained such, the use and improvement of his estate, she paying to Isaac the land just mentioned and £40 lent him years ago; to Lydia Smith, daughter, £100; to four grandchildren, children of daughter, Alice Bixby, deceased, £100, to be paid as they arrive at full age, the sons at 21, and the daughters at 18; to daughter, Jemima Foster, £150, also half of his household goods; to Jerusha, daughter, the same as to Jemima. The inventory of his estate was £602 2s. 4d. He died Aug. 7, 1746.

(Said to be the present Alfred Cummings' place where Isaac lived.)

CHILDREN:

- i. Lydia, baptized May 4, 1690, published Oct. 5, 1723, to Stephen Smith (his second marriage). She was alive at date of father's will, 1746. Children were:

- 24. ii. Isaac, baptized Apr. 24, 1692.
- iii. Alice, born Dec. 10, 1695, published Apr. 22, 1725 in Boxford, to Thomas Bixby. She had died before her father's will was dated, that was June 9, 1736, and she then had surviving four children. Mr. Bixby removed to Hopkinton, Mass., in 1727, where all the children named below, were born, excepting the first.
 - 1. Alice, born Feb. 25, 1725-6.
 - 2. Sarah, born June 28, 1728.
 - 3. Thomas, born Jan. 28, 1729-30.
 - 4. Pelatiah, born Aug. 9, 1731.
- iv. Mercy, born June 5, 1699. Died Nov. 4, 1731. Unmarried.
- v. Jemima, born July 4, 1704, married Jan. 1, 1733-4, Jonathan Foster, son of Caleb and Mary (Sherwin) Foster, born in Ipswich, Nov. 30, 1704. He married second, Dec. 17, 1751, Dorcas Perkins, widow, and had 7 children, whose names were: Jona, Moses, Dorcas, Mary, Caleb, Mercy and Salome. Children by first marriage were:
 - 1. Abbie, born Dec. 4, 1734, died young.

- vii. Jerusha, born Feb. 17, 1710, published Jan. 1, 1736, to Joshua, son of Lot and Elizabeth Conant. He was great-grandson of Roger Conant, a noted early settler, and was born in Rowley, Oct. 19, 1707, and died in Ipswich, Sept. 3, 1749. Children were.
 - 1. Jehoidan, born Oct. 10, 1737.
 - 2. Pelatiah, born Jan. 19, 1739.
 - 3. Jerusha, born Sept. 7, 1743.
 - 4. Lot, born Dec. 24, 1746. One daughter of Lot and Eunice Conant, named Eunice, married Dudley Wildes, and died Sept. 19, 1864, aged 94 years, 8 months and 24 days.
 - 5. Joshua, born Feb. 6, 1750.
- 9. JOHN CUMMINGS (Isaac,² Isaac¹) married Jan. 23, 1688, Susanna Town, daughter of Joseph and Phebe (Perkins) Town; born in Topsfield, Dec. 24, 1671, and died Sept. 13, 1766. His will was made May 8, 1722, and proved July 16 following. He bought Jan. 1, 1693-4, of Grace Andrews, his grandmother, widow of Robert, for £60, 80 acres swamp and meadows, south side of Ipswich River "second division," bounded by Porter, Ipswich river, William Town and William

Perkins. His father in 1718, deeded his homestead to him. He was then dwelling on the tract first mentioned. In his will, after giving to Susanna her thirds of lands on the south side of the river, he divided the farm his father gave him between his sons, Joseph and John, partly in Topsfield and partly in Ipswich, north side of the river; to his son, David, who was executor, all his lands on the south side of the river and the east side of Nichols' brook, and a small piece of meadow on the west side of that brook; to his youngest sons, Stebbings and Samuel, "all the rest of my lands and meadows on the west side of said brook to the river." He made specific gifts to his daughters also.

CHILDREN:

25. i. Joseph, baptized Jan. 26, 1689-90.
26. ii. John, baptized July 12, 1692.
27. iii. Isaac, born Dec. 25, 1695.
28. iv. David, born Apr. 15, 1698.
- v. Mary, born May 13 (or 15), 1700; married Jan. 24, 1723-3, Nathaniel Hutchinson, son of Benjamin and Jane (Phillips) Hutchinson, born at Salem Village (North Danvers) May 3, 1698; and died in Sutton, Mass., 1757. She died before 1732. She was to receive from her father's estate in 1722, £40.
- i. Mary, baptized Mar. 15, 1723-4.
2. Susanna, baptized, Nov. 28, 1725.
3. Bethiah, baptized July 14, 1730.
- vi. Susanna, born Jan. 13, 1701-2, married Feb. 14, 1721-2, John Whipple, of Salem. She was living 1722-3.
- vii. Stebbins, born Aug. 1706, married Ruth, daughter of John and Abigail (Raymond) Giles, of Salem Village, baptized, Sept. 16, 1705. He was a cooper. Sold, 1732, 52 acres and one-half barn which was formerly given to brother John by father's will. The same year he bought in Sutton, in 1747 also. His will, Apr. 22, 1760, was witnessed by Jacob Cummings and Jacob, Jr., giving Ruth Hawes £5, and also property of David and Eli Putnam. History of Sutton says he was the first teetotaler in town, but his full temperament and florid complexion led strangers to think otherwise. He married Betty Carriel. Children:
 1. Ruth, born May 16, 1732 in Sutton; married, May 1, 1753, Eleazer Hawes.
 2. Mary, born, October 22, 1733, in Sutton; married, Dec. 4, 1752, Fuller Putnam and they had David, born Jan. 26, 1753, and Eli, born Sept. 27, 1754.

29. viii. Samuel, born Feb. 14, 1708-9.
 ix. Rebecca, baptized Nov. 1, 1713, married Feb. 2, 1730-1, Thomas Perkins, born Mar. 30, 1707. He married second, May 8, 1746, Lydia Curtis, who died Sept. 5, 1750. He married third (published Jan. 14, 1753) Susanna Prescott, of Hampton, N. H., by whom he had 11 children, besides the two below of the first marriage. He died Mar. 4, 1786.
 1. Enoch, born Dec. 16, 1731.
 2. Susanna, born July 30, 1733, died May 24, 1761.

10. THOMAS CUMMINGS (Isaac,^a Isaac^c) married, Mar. 20, 1705, Mehitabel Porter, daughter of Joseph and Ann (Hawthorne) Porter. She was baptized in the First Church, Salem, Sept. 1682, and died in Boxford, May 9, 1738; "aged, 56 years and 15 days." His will was proved, Dec. 25, 1749. January 21, 1716, he bought of Peter Prescott and Elizabeth, his wife, a house and 20 acres of land joining on Salem village (North Danvers). This he sold for £200, to Samuel White, April 20, 1722. March 13, 1700, he bought of Thomas Newmark and Mary, his wife, one fourth part of 800 acres at Fishing brook, bounded on Thomas Manning, John Gould and the Andover line. This is in Boxford. March 9, 1708, he bought of John Styles and David Peabody, of Boxford, and Samuel Fisk, of Wenham, one fourth part of 800 acres, south side of same brook, part of bounds being near Andover line. December 26, 1743, he deeded 80 acres, a gift to Jacob his son, in "the saw-mill lot" and he willed to the same his homestead. May 16, 1744, he gave his son, Samuel, a farm at Lunenburg. He bequeathed to his son, Samuel, "all that land bought of Edward Hartwell, July 20, 1726, lying in Lancaster New Grant (Lunenburg, Mass.) and the other part lying in Turkey Hill, now in possession of Samuel; also the house he lives in, barn and orchard." He gave his daughters £20 each with sundry household goods, and, making Jacob executor, left to him his homestead. He was selectman in Boxford, 1713, 1721, 1728 and 1731.

CHILDREN:

30. i. Samuel, born Apr., 1714.
 ii. Mehitabel, born Oct. 21, 1710, married May 7, 1740, Oliver Andrews, of Boxford, who died in Middleton, in 1767, and his wife was named administratrix. A daughter, unnamed, was born Jan. 9, 1740-1, in Boxford. He was a farmer. Oliver Andrews purchased a pew in the meeting house in 1745.

iii. Jacob, born Nov. 21, 1714.

iv. Abigail, born June 5, 1717, married Nov. 16, 1743, John Buswell, probably son of John and Elizabeth (Stiles) born in Boxford. A John Boswell, born 1703-4, lived there and had two children, Ruth and John. He was the first grave-digger in town, 1716. He had deceased by 1758. The widow married six years later, Jonathan Whipple, of Danvers. Ruth, born 1746. John Love had her published to marry him Jan. 31, 1775. She repudiated the publication, as she said he was "only a transient person," and she had never agreed to join him. She did marry David Butman in 1778, who died 1816, aged 68. She died May, 1810. Her brother John, born 1748, resided in Rindge, N. H.

FOURTH GENERATION.

II. JOHN CUMMINGS, (John,³ John,² Isaac,¹) married, Oct. 3, 1705 (recorded in Charlestown), Elizabeth Adams. He died in Westford, where he was an early settler, Apr. 27, 1759. She died Apr. 30, 1759, only three days after. His farm was on Stoney brook. "Samuel Spalding deeded to John Cummings, of Chelmsford, land on Stoney brook, Jan. 19, 1721-2," near present railroad station, including land latterly owned by Mr. Geo. B. Dupee and Sarah Cummings. He bought land as early as 1707. His dwelling was probably near Mr. Dupee's and the Great Elm. He was moderator of the meeting called in the west precinct of Chelmsford, to make choice of a minister, May 2, 1727. He was called deacon then, although the second church was not organized until August following. Rev. E. R. Hodgman (History of Westford to whom as well as to his history this compiler is much indebted), infers that he had been deacon in the first church before this time. He was elected deacon, however, in the new precinct in Dec., 1727. He was moderator of the first recorded town meeting in Westford, Mar. 2, 1729-30, and was chosen one of the first board of selectmen. He appears on the board during 13 years. He was town clerk in 1736.

CHILDREN:

- i. Elisabeth, born Aug. 24, 1706, in Chelmsford. She is not mentioned, 1753, in her father's will. There is a record of an Elisabeth who married, 1724, James Hildreth.
- ii. Mary, born July 5, 1708, married Nov. 10, 1732, Timothy, son of Thomas and Sarah (Fletcher) Read and born Mar. 21, 1714, in Westford. He removed to Dunstable and lived on the West side of Salmon brook. It is related of him that he once went to search with others, for a neighbor named Whitney, who having escaped from the Indians, had built himself a hut in the bushes. Approaching this hut, and seeing a movement in the bushes, Read fired and killed Whitney, the memory of which saddened his remaining years. His wife died Nov. 3, 1778, in Dunstable. Children:

1. Elisabeth, born Feb. 2, 1732-3.
2. Mary, born Feb. 22, 1734.
3. Timothy, born Aug. 30, 1736, married Susanna ———, and had 9 children.
4. Catharine, baptized 1738.
5. Eleazer, born Feb. 1749, married Jan. 1, 1771, Rachel Cummings. May have been the Rachel, daughter of Leonard and Jane of Londonderry, one of three children whose guardian was Joel Parkhurst, of Dunstable. Eleazer and Rachel had Rachel, born Jan. 4, 1770; Rhoda, born Nov. 26, 1772; Caleb, born Aug. 7, 1775; Leonard, born Apr. 4, 1777, died Sept. 3, 1788; Rebecca, born Mar. 8, 1779, and Betsy, born Dec. 17, 1780, died May 8, 1789. The father died Aug. 10, 1811, the mother Feb. 8, 1823, aged 87 years.
32. viii. John, born June 1, 1710.
33. iv. William, born July 29, (27) 1712.
34. v. Thomas, born Aug. 1, 1714.
- vii. Abigail, born 1716, married Nov. 23, 1732, Samuel Read, son of John and Jane (Chamberlain) Read and born Aug. 11, 1711 (cousin of Timothy). She died Mar. 23, 1743. Her children are mentioned in her father's will of that date. He married second, June 22, 1757, widow Hannah (Wright) Underwood, (John) and had by her four children: Abigail, Olive, Bridget and Samuel. The second wife died Mar. 7, 1811. Children by first wife were:
 1. Thomas, born Feb. 6, 1732-3; Lieutenant; three wives and 17 children.
 2. Samuel, born Jan. 20, 1734-5, died Jan. 20, 1755.
 3. Silas, born Apr. 2, 1737, married 1772, Hannah Chamberlain; 16 children.
 4. William, born Sept. 24, 1739.
35. viii. Samuel, born Sept. 16, 1718.
36. ix. Ephraim, born Nov. 30, 1720.
- x. Bridget, born Nov. 15, 1722, married June 6, 1744, Lieut. Moses Parker, son of Aaron and Abigail (Adams) Parker. He married second, (published Aug. 20) 1779, Widow Anna Barret. He died July 12, 1797, aged 79. Bridget died after 1765. Children:
 1. Bridget, baptized July, 1745, died young.
 2. Bridget, born Oct. 30, 1746.

3. Elizabeth, born Mar. 8, 1749, died Feb. 20, 1827 unmarried.
4. Isaac, born July 18, 1751, died June 17, 1753.
5. Lucy, born July 17, 1753.
6. Moses, born Aug. 14, 1755.
7. John, born July 12, 1757, married Abigail and died Feb. 5, 1778.
8. Isaac, born Aug. 22, 1760, married Feb. 8, 1785, Bridget Fletcher, and second, Catharine Wilson.
9. Aaron, born Sept. 26, 1762, published Mar. 12, 1791, married 1792 to Joanna Fletcher. Removed to Cavendish, Vt., and died in Byron, N. Y., Dec. 29, 1823. She died in 1838.
10. Abigail, born Feb. 10, 1765.

Ebenezer, born July 4, 1726, died Mar. 5, next year.

12. SAMUEL CUMMINGS (John,³ John,² Isaac¹) married, Jan. 14, 1708-9, Elizabeth Shed, in Charlestown "before Edward Emerson, justice of the peace." She and Jerahmeel Boyden, both of Groton, were appointed administrators of her husband's estate in 1718. We note, too, that Joseph Boyden had, on Aug. 6, 1708, deeded to Samuel Cummings, of Groton, for £40, several pieces of land in that town, designated as Way Pond, Jude Hill Meadows, etc. Elisabeth Cummings, widow, married Jan. 23, 1720, Robert Robbins of Littleton.

CHILDREN recorded in Groton:

37. i. Samuel, born Mar. 6, 1709, baptized Apr. 24, 1709.
38. ii. Jerahmeel, born Oct. 10, 1711.
- iii. James, born July 14, 1713.

13. DEACON WILLIAM CUMMINGS (John,³ John,² Isaac¹) married Sarah, daughter of William and Esther Harwood. John, a brother of hers, was killed in Lovewell's fight, 1725, at Pequawket. Mr. Cummings himself was one of the forty-six or forty-seven men who started on that expedition. But near the island at the mouth of the Contoocook—the scene of Hannah Dustin's famous exploit, he was disabled by an old wound and sent home under charge of his kinsman, Josiah Cummings (22). In 1734, he received £10 on account of having been wounded in the country's service. He was assessed in Nottingham West in 1733. But there is a record of land deeded to him Jan. 7, 1722-3, on the east side of the Merrimac, a part of the farm known as "the Joseph Hills farm." He sold land there in 1751. He was deacon in the church. In 1752, the town voted "to give Deacon William Cummings, for wolves killed last year, the same sum of money which was allowed per head this year." He died Aug. 29, 1757.

CHILDREN:

Dec. 8, 1780. He bought 90 acres of land, east of the Merrimac river and opposite the mouth of the Nashua river, in what is now Hudson, in August, 1728. He built a frame two-story house upon it and soon after opened a tavern and established a ferry across the Merrimac at the mouth of the Nashua river. His farm was the southerly portion of the Joseph Hills farm and was purchased from Benjamin Lang and Mrs. Hannah (Lang) Rogers, the grand-children of Joseph Hills, of Malden, Mass. He lived on this place till his death; accumulated considerable property, but lost heavily by continental currency during the War of Independence. He was on the first board of selectmen of the town after its incorporation in 1733. Having no children by his first wife, he brought up Eleazar, son of his brother Nathaniel, and before his children were born had framed two wills, one 1750, and one 1760, in which he bequeathed to this nephew his real and personal estate.

CHILDREN:

53. i. Eleazar, born June 16, 1765.
- ii. Phebe, born July 8, 1768, married Nathaniel Pierce, son of Joshua Pierce, formerly of Woburn, afterward of Nottingham West. He was born Sept. 11, 1766, and died Jan. 29, 1853. She died June 14, 1860. Lived in Bradford, N. H. Their children were:
 1. Nathan, married and had two children.
 2. Cummings, married and had two children.
 3. Daniel, no children.
 4. Chapin, (Stephen Chapin?)
 5. Polly, unmarried.
 6. Susanna, unmarried.

19. ABRAHAM CUMMINGS (Abraham,¹ John,² Isaac³) married Mary (Richardson?). We hear of Abraham Cummings as buying, Oct. 7, 1714, lands in Attleboro, Mass. (On record at Taunton that Abraham Cummings, of Woburn, bought of James Tiffany at that date). A daughter is born to him in Medford, 1717. He purchased other lands in Attleboro, in the spring of 1733-4. He made his will, Feb. 19, 1750-1; it was proved, Apr. 7, 1755. He provided rooms and support for his widow, and distributed to Abraham, Joseph, Daniel, Stephen and "daughter Elizabeth at 18 years," £5. 6s. 8d. each, and to daughters, Mary Fuller and Sarah Richardson, £2 13s. 4d., and made David executor and gave him all the real estate.

CHILDREN:

- i. Mary) born Feb. 19, 1717, in Medford, Mass., married (published in Attleboro, Nov. 2, 1734) Samuel Fuller.

- ix. Stephen, born Dec. 28, 1736.
- x. Elizabeth, born July 3, 1742, married Sept. 21, 1768, Joel Fisher, and had Elizabeth and Polly.

20. CAPT. JOSEPH CUMMINGS (Abraham, John, Isaac) married, Dec. 1, 1714, Sarah, daughter of Isaac and Abigail (Kimball) Estey, sister to Abigail, who married Joseph Cummings, (20). According to the address delivered by Prof. Parker Cleaveland at the 200th anniversary of the town of Topsfield, Joseph who was born in Woburn, went at the age of 12, to live with his Uncle Howlet. This was about the year 1704. The Uncle William had married, Oct. 27, 1671, Mary Perkins, daughter of Thomas and Phebe (Gould), born 1651; died, 1728. They had but one child, Thomas, who married, 1695, Rebecca Cummings (3, viii). Thomas having no child, adopted Joseph Cummings, whose mother was Sarah Howlet. But Thomas died in 1713, and his father, on May 21, 1715, made the following declaration and conveyance; the John Howlet mentioned was the son of Samuel, William's brother.

"For and in consideration of a deed of sale of this date made by John Howlet of said Ipswich, at my request and desire, of his farm in Thick Woods, to Jos. Cummings of said Ipswich, as per deed may appear, and also for the sum of 60 pounds paid and secured to be paid by my order to my daughter-in-law, Rebecca Howlet, and for that said John Howlet hath promised and engaged to fulfill these following articles: To pay annually during the natural lives of me and my now wife, twenty-five bushels of good and marketable Indian corn, six bushels of good and merchantible barley malt, four bushels of rye, two bushels of wheat, one hundred pounds of good pork, four barrels of cider, six bushels of apples and fire wood, and fifty of pork, sufficient for them at the door, the keeping of two cows, winter and summer, and ten pounds of flax, ten and eighteen pounds money, the running of two pigs at door and in orchard; all this duty to be performed yearly by said John Howlet:

"Convey and confirm unto said John Howlet, his heirs and assigns forever, all my farm, messuage or tenement which I now dwell upon and that tenement which my son Thomas's widow dwells upon, which farm and tenements are situated partly in Ipswich and partly in the township of Topsfield, containing by estimation one hundred acres, be it more or less, lying partly on the North Side of Ipswich river, and partly on Topsfield line, bounded as followeth: On the North East by Ipswich town common, on the East upon Ipswich river, West on land of Nathaniel Averill, Samuel Howlet and Ebenezer Averill, North West on land of Tobijah Perkins, also all my wood land lying upon the South Side of Ipswich river."

Accordingly, John Howlet, May 20, 1715, had signed the following: "Whereas, in consideration of a deed made to me by my Uncle William, of the farm he now dwells on in Ipswich, I have granted all this said farm to Joseph Cummings of Ipswich, at the request of said William, being seventy acres, sixty of which stands by the house and barn, beginning at a stake and heap of stones by John Lamson's land, at a place called the pond, thence up the hill and extending to the river on the other side." Marietta Clark (Historical Collections of Topsfield Historical Society), says Joseph Cummings is known to have lived on the hill referred to.

On Jan. 3, 1717-8, William Howlet bequeathed one-half of his estate to be "equally divided between my cousins, John Howlet, that lives hard by, and my cousin, Joseph Cummings." In a codicil, Apr. 3, 1718, he says: "By my cousin, Joseph Cummings, I do intend my sister Sarah, her grandson Joseph Cummings."

Mrs. Mary Howlet completes this narrative of the Howlet connection, for in her will she says: "My will is that my cousin, Joseph Cummings, aforesaid, and my cousin Sarah Wildes, now Perkins, who hath lived with me some years, shall have at my decease what remains undisposed of otherwise, equally divided between them, only my bed which I now lie on shall be and is already ordered to my cousin, Joseph Cummings, not being any divided between them, but shall be free and clear to said Cummings; but all the rest undisposed of shall be equally divided between them, only that I would have it noted that my little iron dish kettle that contains about the quantity of a pailful, together with a coverlid which was my sister Judith's lately deceased, and fell to my part of the estate—These particulars last mentioned shall fall into and be accounted part of my cousin, Sarah Wildes, now Perkins, aforesaid, her share."

Capt. Cummings became quite a large operator in real estate, for between 1719 and 1763 as many as twenty-three deeds were recorded as passed between him and various parties, principally purchases by him of tracts of land. After a good deal of negotiation, the part of Ipswich where he lived was set off to Topsfield. This was in 1774. The Rev. Temple Cutler, of Essex, Mass., says that among the papers of his grandfather, Rev. Dr. Manasseh Cutler, he once came across an obituary notice of Capt. Cummings, in which the Doctor speaks of him as a remarkable man, well versed in the politics of the day. My correspondent adds: "From the interest Dr. Cutler felt in him, he must have been a staunch patriot and Federalist."

We add a part of the notice of him which appeared in the Salem Gazette, May 13, shortly after his death and may well be the one to which Mr. Cutler refers: "In early life he made a public profession of religion, and, by a uniform piety, integrity, temperance, cheerfulness and benevolence, he supported an amiable and unblemished character. He was not favored with the advantages of education; but strong mental powers, inquisitive turn of mind, and a tenacious memory had enabled him to acquire and retain a good knowledge of the principal events and public transactions of the last hundred years. Possessed of a rich fund of interesting and entertaining anecdotes, he was a living history of nearly a century. Within his memory the people in his neighborhood were in fear of the Indians, and he had himself stood sentry at a small fortress in the town. Employed from his youth in cultivating a valuable farm, not with excessive labor, but steady industry—living in a plentiful, but plain and simple manner—and enjoying a uniform cheerfulness—the powers of his body and mind continued in great vigor, to a very advanced age. When nearly a hundred, he would readily mount his horse from the ground, and his reason continued to his last moments. Satisfied with living, and with little appearance of any other disease than senility, he closed this mortal scene, in the cheering hope of a blessed immortality. His descendants were 2 children; 23 grandchildren; 116 great-grandchildren; and 32 great-great-grandchildren, total, 173.

In a statement made by Mrs. Susanna Randall, is found the following tradition: "The day he was a hundred years old, he put his foot in the stirrup from the ground; seated himself in the saddle, rode to Andover on a cold wintry day to visit his grandson, Stephen, my father, and about that time Stephen had a son born whom he named Joseph for his grand-sire." As will be seen from comparison of records, the grand-sire was born Sept. 1, 1692; and his name-sake, Dec. 6, 1792. Capt. Cummings married for his second wife, Nov. 10, 1751, Priscilla Lamson. In his will, dated July 29, 1785, and proved May 5, 1794 (he died Apr. 22 preceding), he mentions "the heirs of my last wife's two brothers, viz.: The heirs of John Lamson and the heirs of Peter Lamson, deceased; the heirs of Abigail Edwards, also deceased. Mary Davis, daughter to my grand-daughter, Hannah Adams." Among his granddaughters he also mentions Sarah Wiggins and Lydia Wiggins. To his son Thomas, with whom he had spent his declining days he devised the residue of the estate. Priscilla, the second wife, had died Aug. 19, 1780.

CHILDREN:

56. i. Thomas, baptized July 15, 1716.

ii. Sarah, born Aug. 20, 1720, published Sept. 18, 1736, to Benjamin Lamson, son of William and Lydia, of Ipswich, and born Apr. 8, 1710. He died in the spring of 1753. His will dated March 29. His wife was then alive. She is mentioned too in her father's will, July 29, 1785, as then living as well as three of her children, Benjamin, Sarah, and Lydia. The family as far as known, was as follows:

1. Joseph,

2. Benjamin, born Nov. 11, 1740, married Mar. 14, 1765, Martha Dennis, and had eight children.

3. Daniel.
4. Sarah.
5. Lydia.

21. JACOB CUMMINGS (Abraham,¹ John,² Isaac¹) married, Mar. 28, 1716, Martha Brooks; married second, Nov. 9, 1720, Abigail Wilson, according to Killingly court records: "Jacob, and Martha Cummings, his wife, were received into full communion in the Church of Killingly, Sept. 12, 1715." "Abigail, wife of Jacob Cummings, was received Apr. 15, 1727." It has been said that he may have married third, Elinor. He is recorded as having died in Ware, Mass., Feb. 27, 1776, in his 83d year. This does not enable one to identify him positively with the son of Abraham (7, iv.), born Jan. 3, 1695, as the dates given do not exactly correspond. But the settlement of the town of Killingly was to a considerable extent, by families from the localities in Massachusetts where this line of Cummingses originated. The names of the children seem to indicate affinity with this particular branch. There was another settler of the Cummings' name, John Cummings, in the town and vicinity, who also had several children. Although no close relationship has been traced, yet this John was a former resident of Woburn, as was Abraham (7, iv.). Most of the children mentioned below were born in Killingly, but it may be that some who were born after the appearance of the father in Ware, were baptized, as were the earlier children, in Killingly. Jacob Cummings is referred to as fence-viewer there as late as 1728. But the Hon. William Hyde, of Ware, in his sketch of that town, speaks of him as "the most prominent man in the precinct and town for many years. He was one of the first deacons of the church (1751), acted as moderator of the first meeting of the parish (1742), was one of the precinct committee, and when the town was incorporated (1762) was one of the first board of selectmen and town treasurer." He was also on the building committee for the first house of worship. He located on the farm owned in 1847, by Joel Ric., and owned also a farm which, in 1847, was in possession of one of his descendants, the Hon. Joseph Cummings.

CHILDREN:

- 61. xii. Solomon, born Mar. 5, 1743.

22. JOSIAH CUMMINGS (Abraham,³ John,² Isaac¹) married Miriam ———. In 1725, he was a member of a company of 88 men raised by Capt. John Lovewell, who scoured the country in different directions for Indians and killed at Lovewell's Pond (Wakefield, N. H.), a party of ten Indians for which they received the offered allowance of two shillings, seven pence a day, and £100 for each male scalp. In the same year in April, he formed one of the more famous expeditions to Pequawket, but returned from Contoocook, with his kinsman, William Cummings (13), who had been previously wounded and was unable to proceed. In 1731, being then of Dunstable, he bought and sold land under Capt. Lovewell. For his military services he owned a share in 2,150 acres of wild land which he being "of Litchfield," sold in 1738, to Thos. Colburn, and in 1743, he bought on the river a farm in Nottingham West, of Ebenezer Spalding, now known as the Pierce farm. He was chairman of the selectmen of the town in 1736-8-9, and a member of the board also in 1737-40. He was an influential man. He died, Feb. 8, 1761. We hear of Miriam, his wife, as selling land with her son in 1773, and 1774, and 1778. There is reported one son, Josiah, imbecile.

23. ELEAZAR CUMMINGS (Abraham,³ John,² Isaac¹) married Rachel Proctor, of Londonderry. He seems to have married a second time for Nov. 16, 1736, his widow, Mary, declined to be administratrix, and Josiah Cummings, of Litchfield, his brother, was appointed instead. Daniel Proctor, of Chelmsford, brother of deceased wife, Rachel, was appointed guardian of the two children. Dec. 17, 1745, Eleazer, "of Actown," one of these, selected the same person as his guardian, as did Abraham, "of Chelmsford," Aug. 29, 1748. Mr. Proctor made report of his guardianship in 1751. Mr. Cummings belonged in Nottingham West, where he was assessed from 1731 onward. His estate was described, at the proving of the will, as a homestead of 55 acres and one-third of 20 acres meadow—"part of the Joseph Hills farm."

CHILDREN:

62. i. Eleazer, born Dec. 15, 1730.
- ii. Abraham, born June 1, 1734. Chelmsford records, according to G. O. Danforth, of Dunstable, show, "Abraham, son of Eleazar and Rachel C., died May 13, 1756."

24. ISAAC CUMMINGS (Isaac,³ Isaac,² Isaac,¹) married, Mar. 8, 1716-7, Abigail Boardman, daughter of Joseph Boardman. He bought, June 8, 1724, of Stephen and Lydia Smith, his sister, all their title to their mother's estate bequeathed to her by her grandfather, Thomas Howlet, May 26, 1725, and the title of Thomas and Alice Bixby, his second sister, to the same estate. His wife, Abigail, with her two sisters, Hannah, who was the wife of Jacob Perkins, and Prudence inherited their father's homestead, lying partly in Topsfield and partly in Ipswich, which they sold to Elisha Cummings in Dec. 1742. February 19 and 20, 1752, Isaac and Abigail united in deeding their homestead and lands to their sons, Joseph and Peletiah, said in the deed to be bounded on Samuel Lamson, west by the farm given to Isaac by his father, north on Capt. Joseph Cummings, east on corner bounds between Isaac's land and said Joseph Cummings. The record of the death of "Isaac, an aged man, Oct. 12, 1761," probably refers to this Isaac. She died, Oct. 5, 1771.

CHILDREN:

- i. Abigail, baptized Aug. 2, 1719, married June 24, 1738, Samuel Potter, of Ipswich. Removed to Bridgewater, N. H.
63. ii. Elisha, baptized Aug. 2, 1719.
- iii. Mary, baptized Oct. 2, 1720, married June (Jan. ?) 4, 1741, Ezekiel Potter. A Mary, daughter of Ezekiel Potter, married 1772, Isaac Peabody, of New Boston, N. H., and died aged 86. Her son, Moses Peabody, had among other children, Ezekiel Cummings, who lived in Lynn.
64. iv. Joseph, born Mar. 20, 1721-2.
- v. Hannah, born Jan. 16, 1724, in Ipswich, married, Jan. 8, 1751, (Linebrook parish record), Robert Perkins, son of Robert and Elizabeth (Town) born in Topsfield, Jan. 16, 1727-8. He died Nov. 10, 1801. She died July 22, 1802, in Topsfield.

1. Ruth, born Oct. 1, 1753, married 1774, John Gould, 3d.
2. Hannah, born May 17, 1755, died Nov. 16, 1802.
3. Lydia, born May 29, 1760, died Feb. 27, 1830.
4. Asa, born June 15, 1762, married Hannah Johnson.
5. Mehitabel, born Nov. 14, 1767, died Dec. 1813.

65. vi. Pelatiah, baptized Oct. 27, 1728.

25. JOSEPH CUMMINGS (John,³ Isaac,² Isaac¹) married, May 22, 1722, Abigail Estey, daughter of Isaac and Abigail (Kimball). Both died of small pox, he, Dec. 24, 1729; she, Jan. 10, 1729-30. Lived in Topsfield. January 13, 1729-30, Capt. Joseph Cummings administered for the estate of Joseph, deceased, "his brother-in-law." The estate which the father, John, left to Joseph and John, sons, was, Oct. 26, 1722, divided equally. It contained 100 acres. Thos. Potter, of Ipswich, was appointed guardian of Joseph; Jacob Peabody, of Ipswich, of Jacob; Jos. Cummings, of Ipswich, of Moses; Aaron Estey, of Topsfield, of Daniel; and John Perkins, whose wife was Mary Estey, of Abigail. The children "on coming of age, sold their shares in the estate, so that the homestead passed out of the family name." (Hist. Coll. Topsfield.)

CHILDREN:

66. i. Joseph, born July 27, 1713.
67. ii. Jacob, born May 12, 1717.
- iii. Abigail, born Dec. 16, 1721. It may be presumed that it was she who, in Sutton, married, Aug. 25, 1740, Ebenezer Sibley, and had Ebenezer, born Oct. 9, 1745, Abigail, born June 29, 1747, and Mary, born Aug. 30, 1749. Her brothers, Jacob and Moses, were in that town.
68. iv. Daniel, born Dec. 4, 1724.
- v. Moses, born Oct. 9, 1726. A Moses was published Nov. 2, 1754, in Ipswich, to marry Esther Adams. But we hear of a Moses in Sutton, who married Abigail, and had Moses, born Jan. 10, 1757. A Moses is recorded in Worcester as having married in Sutton, June 15, 1780, Patty Harris.

26. JOHN CUMMINGS (John,³ Isaac,² Isaac¹) married (published Feb. 18, 1715-16) Mercy Larrabee, "Mary, daughter of Isaac and Martha (Towne) Larrabee," of Lynn (Topsfield Coll.). Lived first in Middleton and afterward in Andover. He died May 22, 1756, having made his will Dec. 19 previous, being then of Southboro. December 16, 1727, John and Stebbins, brothers, "exchanged messuages" given by their father. In 1732, he is spoken of as belonging to Middleton, now "Porter-Gould place." March 13, 1739-40, mention is made of a deed of gift of one-half acre, known as "the burying place" to him, and David Cummings and others, with privilege to pass for burial across the land of Joseph Herrick, of Topsfield. March 1, 1753, he bought of Nicholas Holt, land near Holt's saw mill. Mary, the widow, administratrix, deeded in 1757, a four-acre piece, same tract as above, to Thomas Holt, Jr. In 1767, to same party, 15 acres on Salem road, Andover, bounded on Osgood's farm; also four acres in Andover to Timothy Fuller, to which sale Jonathan and Lydia Cummings were witnesses. Jonathan Cummings and Lydia Oakes were married in Andover, Nov. 6, 1766. The inventory of John's estate at his death was £95 5s. 5d. He seems to have removed to Southboro by 1748, buying land there of a John How; his son-in-law, Thomas Goodale, buying an adjoining tract of a John Gould.

CHILDREN:

33. DEA. WILLIAM CUMMINGS (John,⁴ John,³ John,² Isaac¹) published July 12, 1734, to Lucy Colburn, of Dunstable. His children, at least seven, are recorded in Groton. He was, however, in West Dunstable precinct in 1744, and was chosen deacon of the church there in 1745. He lived in the region known as "One Pine Hill." It was a point of long dispute between Hollis and Dunstable whether the people residing there should belong to one or the other town, but in 1763 it was added to Hollis. He was ensign in the company commanded by Capt. Peter Powers in the war of 1755. He died Sept. 9, 1758. She married second Feb. 23 1762, Ebenezer Kendall, both said to be of Hollis. Besides the children mentioned below, it would seem as if Caleb, son of William Cummings, of Dunstable, over whom in 1770, then over 14 years, Samuel Tarbell was made guardian, belongs here,

CHILDREN:

86. i. Ebenezer, born Apr. 17, 1735.

Children:

1. Mary, born 1774; died young.
2. Mary, born 1777.

35. SAMUEL CUMMINGS (John,⁴ John,³ John,² Isaac¹) married Oct. 2, 1741, Sarah Spalding, born June 9, 1723, daughter of Dea. Andrew and Abigail Spalding, of Westford, Mass. He died in Cornish, N. H., June 6, 1796, and she in the same town, Nov. 20, 1801. The two eldest of his children are recorded in Westford. But he seems to have settled early in Dunstable, in that part which was a matter of dispute as to whether it should be part of Groton or not. He was dismissed from the church in Westford in 1757 and united with the church formed that year in the second parish of Dunstable. He was "vandue master" at the time the seats were bidden off in the meeting house in 1759. It was voted in 1764 that "brother Abraham Kendall, brother Josiah Blodgett and brother Samuel Cummings be Queresters in ye Congregation." In 1773 he bought land in Cornish, N. H., not far from the Connecticut river. Jonathan Chase deeded to him land there Apr. 1774. In the old burying ground at Cornish is the following inscription on a stone: "In memory of Mr. Samuel Comings, who died June 6, 1796, in the 78th year of his age.

I sleep in dust but rest in hope
That Christ, my life, will raise me up
The vertuous who in life excel
In death are still remembered well."

A similar inscription on another stone: "In memory of Sarah, wife of Samuel Comings, deceased, who died Nov. 20, 1801, aged 78 years, 5 mo., 19 days," closes with these lines:

"Friends retier prepared be
When God call you to follow me
For death's a debt to nature due
Which I have paid and so must you."

CHILDREN:

93. i. Samuel, born Nov. 18, 1742, in Westford.
- ii. Abigail, born June 23, 1744. Perhaps the Abigail who married Nov. 2, 1769, Thaddeus Cummings (41).

- 94. vi. Benjamin, born Mar. 28, (or 29) 1755.
- vii. Mary, born Dec. 16, 1757, in Dunstable, married Ebenezer Fletcher. She died Feb. 26, 1812. Mr. H. H. Dewey, of Sheffield, Ill., has in his possession a pamphlet concerning Mr. Fletcher, in which the title page is a very full index of the contents:

"A narrative of the captivity and sufferings of Ebenezer Fletcher, of New Ipswich, who was severely wounded and taken prisoner at the battle of Hubbards-ton, Vt., in the year 1777, by the British and Indians, at the age of 16 years, after recovering in part, made his escape from the enemy, and travelling through a dreary wilderness, followed by wolves, and beset by Tories on his way, who threatened to take him back to the enemy, but made his escape from them all, and arrived safe home. Written by himself, and published at the request of his friends. Fourth edition, revised and enlarged. New Ipswich, N. H. Printed by S. Wilder. 1827."
- viii. Andrew, born Feb. 16, 1761, in Dunstable, died Oct. 1, 1775, unmarried.
- 95. ix. Warren, born Oct. 16, 1768, in Dunstable.

- iv. Abigail, born July 16, 1755.

37. SAMUEL CUMMINGS (Samuel⁴, John³, John², Isaac¹) married July 13 (or 18) 1732, Prudence Lawrence, of Groton, born Sept. 14, 1715, daughter of Thomas and Prudence Lawrence. She died 1797. He appears in the west precinct of Dunstable as early as 1739, and was on the first board of selectmen after the organization of West Dunstable precinct in 1742. He was the first justice of the peace, when the precinct was made the town of Hollis, N. H., in 1746. He was moderator of the town-meeting in 1746 and several times after, and town clerk twenty-two different years between 1746 and 1770. He represented the town in various matters pertaining to its general interests. He was sergeant in Capt. Powers' company in the war of 1755. His residence is stated by Worcester, in the History of Hollis, p. 39, as "about 30 rods west of the meeting house, on the place now owned by Levi Abbot." He is sometimes spoken of as "Dr. Cummings," and dignified with the title "Esq.," which was more rarely given in those days than now. He was very prominent in all matters concerning the town and church. He died Jan. 18, 1772.

CHILDREN.

- i. Mary, born Apr. 22, 1734, married Dec. 27, 1752, Oliver Lawrence, who was born Mar. 18, 1728, and died Apr. 2, 1797. She died July 20, 1799. He was a soldier at Cambridge in 1775 and in R. I. in 1778. He appears as a member of the Committee of Safety in Hollis for 1776, 8 and 9, and was selectman in 1776. Children:
 1. Mary, born Nov. 4, 1753, died Jan. 31, 1756.
 2. Oliver, born Oct. 7, 1755, married May 7, 1782, Lydia Dow. Soldier '76. 1779 removed to Hancock, N. H., and was selectman. Died Sept. 5, 1843. She died Nov. 25, 1835.

 10. Aaron, born May 3, 1774, married Mar. 8, 1802, Lucy Putnam, of Stow, Mass. Removed to Hancock, N. H., 1809, to Weston, Vt., 1820, where he died, Aug. 7, 1838. She died Aug. 17, 1862.
 11. Sarah, born Oct. 4, 1777.
- ii. Sybil, born Nov. 1, 1736.
- iii. Prudence, born Nov. 26, 1740, married Dec. 24, 1761, David, son of Samuel and Anna (Lawrence) Wright, who was born in Pepperell, Aug. 19, 1735. She was the heroine of the exploit narrated in Sabine's "Loyalists of the American Revolution," vol. 2, p. 422, under a notice of Leonard Whiting, a noted Tory of Hollis, who in 1775 was the bearer of dispatches from Canada to the British in Boston. He was arrested at Groton in the following way: "After the departure of Col. Prescott's regiment of 'minute men,' Mrs. David Wright, of Pepperell, Mrs. Job Shattuck, of Groton, and the neighboring women collected at what is now Jewett's bridge, over the Nashua river, between Pepperell and Groton, clothed in their absent husbands' apparel, and armed with muskets, pitchforks and such other weapons as they could find, and having elected Mrs. Wright their commander, resolutely determined that no foe to freedom, foreign or domestic, should pass that bridge. Rumors were then rife that the Regulars were approaching, and frightful stories of slaughter flew rapidly from place to place and house to house. Soon there appeared Mr. Leonard Whiting, on horseback, supposed to be treasonably engaged in carrying intelligence to the enemy. Whiting, by direction of Mrs. Wright, in her assumed character of Sergeant of the Bridge Guard, was seized, taken from his horse, searched and detained a prisoner. Dispatches were found in his boots, which were sent to the Committee of Safety, and Whiting himself was committed to the custody of the Committee of Observation of Groton." This is one of the cases in which families were divided on the issues of the struggle with Great Britain. For two of Mrs. Wright's brothers were pronounced Tories, while another was a soldier in the Continental army. This brave woman was the mother of a large family. Note the naming of the 8th and 9th children below:

1. David, born Mar. 28, 1763, married Polly Lowell, of Dunstable.
2. Prudence, born Aug. 29, 1764, died at age of 85, unmarried.
3. Cummings, born Mar. 17, 1766. Removed to Thompson, Conn.
4. Mary, born Dec. 27, 1767, died July 1, 1774.
5. Wilkes, born Dec. 28, 1769, married Elizabeth (?) Coffin, of Newbury. Went to sea and died without children.
6. Caroline Matilda, born Aug. 21, 1772, married Aug. 15, 1791, Samuel Hartwell.
7. Liberty, born July 19, 1774, died Mar. 11, 1775.
8. Devera, born Feb. 10, 1776, married Nathan Corey, Brookline, N. H.
9. Liberty, born May 30, 1778, married Betsy Blanchard, of Pepperell. He died in Nashua, N. H.

- 10. Artemas, born Aug. 4, 1780, married Prudence Corey and died in Milford, N. H.
- 11. Daniel, born Apr. 26, 1783, married in Norfolk, Va., and died at sea.
- 97. iv. Samuel, born Dec. 10, 1742.
- 98. v. Thomas, born Aug. 21, 1748.
- 99. vi. Benjamin, born Nov. 25, 1757.

38. JERAHMEEL CUMMINGS (Samuel⁴, John³, John², Isaac¹) married, 1736, Hannah Farwell. Papers in possession of Waldo F. Cummings, Grafton, Mass., say that her mother was a Learned, and her grandmother Susanna Richardson. He signed the first petition for the charter in West Dunstable, 1738, and was ensign in the first military company there and one of the selectmen in 1745. He was a surveyor. He died in Hollis, Oct. 21, 1747. He lived on the road leading south from Hollis meeting house. His widow married second, 1752, Dea. Stephen Jewett and had by him five children, Stephen, Rebekah, Noah, Jonathan and Louis. She was a woman of earnest piety and remarkable strength of character. Of this an illustration was given in Sprague's Annals, in an account of her son Henry:

"A few years after the death of her husband a gentleman made proposals of marriage to her which she accepted, and the arrangements for the contemplated connection were nearly completed. But for some unknown cause the engagement was suddenly broken; and it was not until her son had been in the ministry several years that she explained the matter to him. She stated that in the last interview she had with this gentleman he intimated to her that he did not expect she would bring her children with her to her new home and asked how she intended to dispose of them. She promptly replied: 'If you do not take my children, you do not take me. I have a duty to perform toward them, and by God's aid I shall perform it,' and immediately gave him leave to retire. Such was the affectionate reverence with which her children regarded her, that they annually went to visit her as long as she lived."

CHILDREN:

- i. Hannah, born July 13, 1737, married Jan. 27, 1762, James Hobart. She was the mother of the Rev. James Hobart, of Vt., said to have been the first child born in Plymouth, N. H., Aug. 2, 1766; died July 16, 1862. One daughter,

- Sally, died Oct. 12, 1811, aged 38 years, first wife of Job Poor, born Oct. 22, 1767.
100. ii. Henry, born Sept. 16, 1739, in Dunstable (now Tyngsboro). His father removed to Hollis soon after, so Dr. Cummings told the Rev. Mr. Whitman.
101. iii. Jotham, born Dec. 29, 1741.
- iv. Caty, born Feb. 28, 1744, married Sept. 27, 1764, Thomas Pratt, a soldier from Hollis, 1775, and wounded at Bunker Hill; also soldier in 1781. Granted by the town £18 for volunteer service 1785. Thomas Pratt married Apr. 13, 1779, Anna Lawrence, of Groton, and she died Jan. 1, 1806, aged 62. The children of this second marriage were: Anna, born Sept. 25, 1779; Stephen and Susanna, born Oct. 24, 1784, and John, born Feb. 18, 1791. The children of Thomas and Caty (Cummings) Pratt were:
1. David, born June 2, 1765.
 2. Caty, born May 9, 1767.
 3. Hannah, born July 29, 1769.
 4. Jerahmeel Cummings, born Apr. 12, 1772, bound May, 1779, to Stephen Jewett. A housewright and sergeant in military company, Dunstable, 1800.
 5. Betty, born Jan. 13, 1774.
 6. Molly, born June 19, 1776.
- v. Betty, born July 17, 1746, married Nov. 26, 1767, Caleb Woods, then of Groton. He seems to have lived along Unquety-nasset brook in that part of Dunstable originally belonging to Groton, but added to Dunstable in 1790. He died Aug. 13, 1822, aged 85. She died at 90, Jan. 18, 1837. Children:
1. Caleb, born 1768, married Abigail ———, and died Mar. 1, 1809.
 2. Stephen Jewett, baptized Jan. 5, 1772.
 3. Katy, baptized Sept. 19, 1773.
 4. Asa, born — 1776, died Oct. 18, 1870, aged 93 years, 11 months.
 5. Jonas, born Apr. 4, 1779.
 6. Rebecca, born Apr. 6, 1781.
 7. Henry Farwell, born ———, died Apr. 8, 1809, aged 25 years.
 8. Hannah Farwell, born Aug. 13, 1786, died June 1, 1793.

39. EBENEZER CUMMINGS (William⁴, John³, John², Isaac¹) married Sarah, daughter of Stephen and Sarah (Hale) Chase, who died Nov. 12, 1772. She was from Newbury, Mass., and born March 13, 1731. In a deed dated April 13, 1757, Ebenezer and Sarah are described as of Nottingham, West. He married, second, in Andover, Mass., April 12, 1774, Sarah Stevens. He was in Capt. Samuel Greeley's company, sent to Concord and Lexington April, 1775. Five of his sons settled in Swanzey, N. H. Three of them, with Samuel—who, weighing only about 170 pounds, was called the pigmy—stepped on the scales together and nearly lifted 1,000 pounds.

CHILDREN:

- i. Enoch, born Oct. 19, 1753, married 1782, Sarah Warren, born 1762, and died Feb. 28, 1812; married second Lovinia Woodcock (Widow Starkey, born 1777, and died Sept. 10, 1831). Resided at Swanzey, N. H. Appears to have served as a soldier at Cambridge, 8 months in 1775. Lived to old age, but had disease in his feet. Mrs. Shattuck remembers receiving his blessing when she was a child and was impressed with his benevolent looks and words. No children. He died Sept. 21, 1833.
- ii. Nehemiah, born July 17, 1756, married May 11, 1780, Philadelphia White, she being then of Swanzey. After the death of her husband, who left his widow a good farm, she seems to have lost standing, drank cider to excess and Oct. 17, 1833, when she was probably 70 years of age, married Benjamin Howard, of Stoddard, N. H. Nehemiah was selectman in 1786.
- iii. William, born Feb. 18, 1759, married ——. Resided in Newburyport, Mass., where he and his partner, Akerman, had a rope-walk, from South (now Broomfield) street to Marlboro street. No children.
- iv. Elizabeth, born Mar. 26, 1761, married Mar. 21, 1782, Samuel Cross, born in Litchfield, in 1757. Came to Hancock, N. H., in 1794. The house they first built had a loose floor and the fire was built on the ground. But better times must have come, for Mrs. Shuttuck, niece, writes of her aunt: "She was a large, stately woman, and they rode in a square-topped chaise with a yellow bottom, the only one in the place in those days." The first wife died Aug. 31, 1828. He married second, Mrs. Taylor, of Greenfield, N. H., whither they removed about the year 1837. Children:
 - i. John, born ———, 1778, in Litchfield. Settled on the Hancock homestead, where he died, 1825. Married Rachel Parker, of Mason, born 1784, and died 1819. Married second, Mrs. Spear, of New Ipswich. 7 children.

2. Charlotte, born June 7, 1794, (adopted) married Dec. 23, 1817, Reuben Farrington. Resided at Greenfield. She died Sept. 9, 1846, and he died Apr. 27, 1862. 5 children.
- v. Daniel, born Jan. 27, 1766, married Mar. 6, 1792, Sally, daughter of Pentecost Stanley. Lived in Swanzey, N. H., till over 80 years old. Died Sept. 11, 1851. Mrs. C. lost her eyesight and Mrs. Shattuck remembers how tenderly her husband used to lead her about. No children.
102. vi. Ebenezer, born Oct. 18, 1768.
103. vii. John, born Apr. 21, 1771.

62. ELEAZER CUMMINGS (Eleazer⁴, Abraham³, John², Isaac¹) married in Hollis, N. H., Apr. 1, 1753, Martha Brown. Martha was appointed administratrix in 1757. As there is a tradition in the family that Eleazer was taken prisoner in the French and Indian War, and even obliged to run the gauntlet it has been conjectured that he had been reported dead. He continued to be taxed in Hudson, but not after 1760, and in that year he and Martha sold land in Hudson. The first three children in the list below were recorded as born in that town. The family removed to Maine.

CHILDREN:

- i. Samuel, born Dec. 18, 1753. He resided in Dracut, and his will was proved in 1834, in which he bequeathed, March 6, 1834, all his estate to Reuben Colburn, "who has lived with me, and I with him for many years." It has been thought by some that he was a bachelor, but Mr. David Clement, of Hudson, who knew him, is certain he had married, but had no children. Mr. Clement also said: "He was in the army with my father at Bunker Hill, and was wounded by a ball in the thigh and by another in the shoulder, from which wounds he was always after lame."

- ii. Rachel, born April 29, 1757.
- iii. Abraham, born Sept. 9, 1759.
- 143. iv. Eleazer, born 1764 or 1769.

63. ELISHA CUMMINGS (Isaac⁴, Isaac³, Isaac², Isaac¹) married Nov. 22, 1744, Mary Andrews of Boxford. He married, second, widow Jemima Marston, July 30, 1776, who appears to have been widow of Caleb Marston, who was born May or June 9, 1729, and died May 17, 1770. Near a score of sales or purchases are on record as made by him in or near Topsfield. It is said that during the war of the Revolution he held some commission with reference to supplies for the army. This commission took him to Meredith, N. H., and adjacent towns. At any rate, he came up from his old home in the latter years of his life to live with Nathaniel or other children.

April 1, 1860. Mr. Douglas was at first a butcher, but at the time of his second marriage he was a prosperous merchant in Portland, Me. He failed, in consequence of the embargo, during the War of 1812. He was, however, able afterward to pay all his debts. He retired about 1836 to North Conway, N. H., where he purchased and cultivated a farm. A letter from Mrs. H. L. Snow, of Bangor, says of Mrs. Douglas: "She was a godly woman, very benevolent, always putting aside a portion of her income for the Lord's work. I have been told that during the hard times of the Embargo she cut her parlor carpet into coverlets for her beds, that she might lend her quilts and blankets to her poorer neighbors. She retained in old age much of the beauty of her youth, and was very interesting in conversation. She looked on the sunny side of life, and whatever the event, could always find 'a Providence in it.'" Both herself and husband were members of the church under care of the Rev. Dr. Payson, and were transferred to the church in Conway.

Daniel Emerson, of Hollis, N. H., who was a strong character and warmly evangelical in his faith. He was invited to settle in Billerica as pastor, the church having "voted to give up their right and privilege of choosing a gospel minister by themselves and to act in conjunction with the town in this important affair." He received all the votes in the joint meeting. His settlement was on the offer of two hundred pounds lawful money, one hundred to be paid at his ordination and the remainder a year later. His salary was £80 and the use of the parsonage pasture, but the usual "supply of wood" was not voted to him. The ordination took place Jan. 26, 1763. His pastorate continued to the end of his life, nearly 61 years. His half-century sermon was printed. At his desire, a colleague was settled, Rev. Nathaniel Whitman, the ordination taking place on the 51st anniversary of his own ordination. During this long period, Dr. Cummings retained his strong hold of the town and the high esteem of his brethren in the ministry. He preached the annual sermon before the Convention of Ministers in 1795, and the same year gave the Dudleyan Lecture in Harvard College. His alma mater conferred the degree of D.D. upon him in 1800. During the War of Independence, he was among the foremost among the ministers who used their influence in and out of the pulpit to promote the patriotic cause. In the year 1783, he preached the sermon before the Legislature, usually called the "election sermon." The town of Billerica elected him as delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1780. Mr. Hazen, in his history of Billerica, gives the titles of seventeen productions of his pen which were printed. His colleague says he wrote a review of Edwards on the Will, which treatise he regarded as fatalistic. It is also stated that some influential persons favored his election to the Presidency of Harvard College, at the time that the vacancy occurred which was filled by President Willard, but he declined to be named in that connection.

Dr. Cummings' public life reached over into the time when the division took place, separating the orthodox and unitarian parties in the Congregational churches. He is reckoned with the latter, and he is thought to have been an Armenian in his views as to moral agency. With respect to Christ, he held a high Arian position. His colleague, who was also a Unitarian, tells us that "he repudiated with infinite abhorrence all thought of personal merit—he regarded salvation as wholly of grace." "He intended, as he told me, to close his ministry by repeating a sermon from the text, 'By grace are ye saved.'"

Dr. Cumings was a man of superior scholarship, a good classical and mathematical student and quite well versed in the Hebrew language. All the testimonies concur in representing him as a man of commanding appearance. "He was six feet and upwards in height, finely proportioned"; "a man of strong passions and quick temper, but had learned the lesson of self-control. In his younger days he used tobacco freely, but when convinced that it was injurious, he abandoned it; but he said that it was like cutting off a right arm." "He was uniformly kind, but in those days any approach to familiarity would have been considered highly improper." Miss Nancy Wilkins, his granddaughter, from whose letter in the History of Billerica the above quotations are made, speaks also of his visiting all the schools once in a year in order to catechise the children; of his love of flowers and his pleasure in the cultivation of the garden. But he was a man very tenacious of rules and maintained a strict discipline in parish and home. It is intimated that his strictness approached sometimes to an extreme. "Whenever," writes Mr. Whitman, in a letter published in Annals of the American Pulpit, "he went to take tea with a family, if he happened to say, when he arrived, as he very frequently did, 'I must start for home at such and such a time,' start he would, whether he had tea or not; and no entreaties could prevail to alter his determination." His observance of the Sabbath was very particular. All worldly business was suspended early Saturday evening. "The family must all go to meeting. But a formal and warm dinner must also be prepared, because he might see some friend or stranger at meeting whom it would be duty to ask home to dine with him." So the dinner was partly prepared in the morning and hastily finished at noon. His later years were cared for by his granddaughters, Ann (or Nancy) Wilkins, and afterwards by Henrietta Wilkins (Mrs. Cheever). "The first Sabbath of May, 1823," writes Mr. Whitman, "was our communion. I asked him on the morning of that day if he proposed to attend meeting. His reply was, 'I am not well enough to go, for I am very feeble. I shall, nevertheless, make the attempt, because it is communion day. I will go, if I can, to show my regard and veneration for the ordinance.' He went, took his seat in a pew, and seemed to enjoy the exercises of the occasion. As we walked from the House of God to our home after the service, he said to me, 'I shall never again unite with you in public worship on earth—my departure is near.' He then, till we reached home, continued speaking with deep gratitude of the goodness and mercy of God toward him during his long life. We never did worship together in public after that day. He was at meeting, indeed, a part of the next Sunday, but I exchanged." He lingered till September 5th, and then entered into peace.

The above account of Dr. Cumings is gathered from Hazen's History of Billerica and from Vol. VIII. of Sprague's Annals of the American Pulpit.

He was a fifer in the company of which his father was captain in the Revolutionary War, and was in the battle of White Plains in 1776. "After the war he went to Sumner, Me., then a wilderness, and felled the first tree cut in the town. He went to take up a lot of land assigned either to him or his father as a Revolutionary soldier, and after he had begun his clearing found out that he had made a mistake as to his location, and returned to Dunstable for more information. The following year he returned and made a clearing in another part of the town, and built a log house. Betsy Bailey was brought up in his father's family, and as soon as he had a home to offer they were married. I know very little about their pioneer life, but have heard that my grandfather had a fine tenor voice, and played the bass viol; that his wife sang soprano, and his eldest boy, Oliver, Jr., sang alto, and thus by means of his viol they could carry the four parts, and generally passed their evenings singing. Later in life he became a well-to-do farmer, and built a house, which is still standing. He was very strict in his religious notions, and was, on one occasion while clearing his farm and keeping account of time by cutting notches in a stick, greatly conscience stricken to find he had lost a day and worked on Sunday. His descendants, with few exceptions, have had a marked religious character." (Letter of Prentiss Cummings, Esq.).

285. v. Daniel, born Apr. 16, 1774.
286. vi. John Boardman, born Mar. 1, 1777.

135. REV. ABRAHAM CUMMINGS (Thomas,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Abraham,³ John,² Isaac¹) married, in 1781, in Peterboro, N. H., where his wife's parents, Dea. Peter and Anna (Porter) Thayer, had recently settled, Phebe, born in Braintree, Mass., Feb. 11, 1750. She was a lineal descendant of John Alden and Priscilla (Mullens). She died Nov. 9, 1795. He married second, widow Hannah Leathe, of Watertown, Mass., who died Mar., 1826, in Yarmouth, Me. He died in Phippsburgh, Me., Aug. 31, 1827. The second wife had, by her first husband, Augusta, who married a Mr. Warren.

Mr. Cummings was graduated at Brown University, 1776. Taught school in Andover, North Parish, the next year, but became a preacher soon. He came, it is thought, to Maine about 1788. His brother, Josiah, kept a tavern in Freeport. We hear of him in 1793 as promoting a revival in the Congregational Church at Bath, but he was most active in fostering the Baptist societies. He was at Winthrop before 1800 and at Vinalhaven in 1805. Some difficulty arose in connection with his work at Sullivan, but he was exonerated from blame in 1818. He preached there, in 1820, a sermon against close communion from Rom. xv. 7, which, at the request of his hearers, was published. But it is said he did not himself practice open communion and gave his reason: "I can, but I won't. I enjoy that privilege as often as is necessary with the Baptists. My sentiments on that subject are displeasing to many of them. If I should put them in practice, they would entirely reject me, and prevent me from doing them any more good." We hear of him also at Edgecombe and at Phippsburg. His nephew, Rev. Asa Cummings, in the notice of his death in the Mirror, said he "never had any stated pastoral on or near the coast."

A large part of his ministry was accomplished by means of a small sail boat. He depended entirely upon voluntary contributions for his livelihood, and his boat was often well laden with gifts.

When leaving home for a trip along the coast he would never take any lunch basket, trusting that he would reach some hospitable house in time of need. But calms or baffling winds would often keep him long fasting, so that when he came to the table he would have a keen relish for a large meal.

On one occasion he was blown off some ways from land and it happened that he had no provisions on board. After a while he felt the pangs of hunger. He had a hook and line with him, but nothing for bait. Providentially, as he thought, when still far out, a grasshopper lit upon his boat. With this he baited his hook, caught a fish, and thus his necessities were relieved.

Sometimes, when afloat in his boat alone, he would fall asleep. His friends remonstrated with him against such exposure, as his boat, left to the winds and waves, might be capsized. His characteristic reply was: "It is as cheap going to Heaven by water as it is by land." Among his friends was the Percy family, in the lower part of Phippsburg.

Passing down the bay in his boat, which the people of Bath had given him, and christened it "Cummings," he was taken ill when near the Percy dwelling. He moored his boat for the last time, repaired to that desired haven, and there rapidly declined and breathed his last. Rev. Jonathan Adams, of Woolwich, whom he had selected, preached at his funeral.

He was a man of marked individuality. This is shown by various incidents which have been preserved in the notice of him, prepared by the Rev. Amasa Loring, to which we are chiefly indebted for our knowledge of his life and character. Some of these incidents deserve to be copied. He was much absorbed in his trains of thought and so absent-minded. Sometimes, when dressing himself, becoming lost in thought, he would draw both of his long stockings upon the same foot, and soon raise the whole house to finding his missing stocking.

A neighbor once lent him a horse to ride to an appointment in a neighboring town; not finding a convenient place to mount him at his door, he led the animal along till one should appear. The day being warm, he dropped the bridle and took off his coat. While doing so he fell into one of his reveries, and became so absorbed in meditation that he thought no more of horse or garment till he reached his place of destination, and his friends inquired with some surprise if he had not taken a coat with him.

His absorption of mind led him to reason sometimes in a very narrow way on some subjects and into very free thinking on others. His nephew, before mentioned, once invited him to dine with him. He replied: "I will, if you will let me perform both religious services at the table." He proceeded to explain: "You have united in worship with Rev. Mr. ———, of North Andover. He is an Arminian. They have fellowship for the Unitarians, the Unitarians for the Socinians, and they for the Arians, and the Arians for the Mahommedans. So that if I now extend Christian fellowship to you I do also to the Mahommedans."

In like way of reasoning, he was led from St. Paul's words to disapprove of women taking part in social religious meetings. One who zealously prized and practised that privilege, in contending for it, asked him: "What must I do when I feel that I must die or go out, if I do not speak and relieve my mind?" "Die or get out, then," he replied, "but do not disobey the Apostle."

He was very much alive to the spiritual and unseen and seemed to have been disposed to believe and speculate more than might have been expected of so orthodox a man. He read Emanuel Swedenborg, and affirmed that he gathered the good into vessels and cast the bad away. Among his printed publications were "Spirits and Phantasms," "The Two Witnesses," "The Millenium" (the last two published by Manning & Loring, Boston, 1797), "Contemplations on the Cherubim," 1812. He replied to Dr. Emmons on "Infant Baptism" and to Dr. Baldwin in regard to his interpretation of Acts, chap. xix.

A certain person who scouted the practice of studying sermons before delivering them, once asked Mr. Cummings if he did not sometimes write his sermons beforehand. He replied, frankly: "Oh, yes." "Don't you write them, sometimes, a long time before preaching them?" "Yes, sometimes." "And don't they get dry, and cold, and musty?" continued his interlocutor. "Not at all! salt will keep them; put the salt of Divine grace into your sermons, and they will never must," he replied.

He was interred in the burying place of the Percy family at Phippsburg within sight of the historic Popham's Landing.

CHILDREN:

- i. Phebe, born Aug. 1783; married Dec. 5, 1803, Isaac H. Bailey, of North Yarmouth, Me. He died Sept. 21, 1821. She died Mar. 23, 1874. In the record of her father by the Rev. Amasa Loring, it is said: "Her monumental stone, in the upper cemetery of Yarmouth, records her parentage and her descent from John Alden, of the Mayflower. She seemed to have inherited her father's spiritual mindedness and saintly nature. Her life was one of rare beauty and excellence. Her gentleness, unselfishness, helpfulness and cheerfulness made her one of the most companionable of women, steadfast of friends and cordial of neighbors. She was a perfect housewife, and her frugality and neatness were the admiration of her neighbors and friends. She was a communicant of the Baptist Church in Yarmouth, where thirty-three years of her existence were passed." They had:

1. Dudley P., born Apr. 19, 1805; married, first, 1839, Hannah Hayes, and second, Hannah Cushman, who died 1882. Graduated at Bowdoin College, was pastor of Baptist Churches in Greene, Cornville and Morison, Me. In the latter place he remained many years, much beloved. Later he

137. DEA. DANIEL CUMMINGS (Thomas,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Abraham,³ John,² Isaac¹) married, Feb. 26, 1782, Mary Dodge, fifth daughter of Samuel Dodge, of Ipswich, born Apr. 13, 1756. He removed to Marlboro, N. H., in 1787, occupying the place known as "the Stillman Fifield place," in what is now Roxbury, N. H. The wife died Mar. 10, 1824. He married second, May 12, 1825, Lydia, daughter of Isaac and Hannah McAllister. He was for many years deacon in the Baptist Church in Pottersville. He died Nov. 26, 1836. His widow died Dec. 29, 1856.

CHILDREN:

- i. Daniel, born Feb. 26, 1783, birth recorded in Andover, Mass.; died Jan. 7, 1784.
290. ii. Daniel, born Dec. 13, 1784.
- iii. Mary, born Feb. 10, 1787; died Jan. 21, 1834.

- 291. iv. John, born Oct. 29, 1789.
- 292. v. Thomas, born May 22, 1792.
- vi. Anna, born Jan. 21, 1795; married Nov. 6, 1821, Robert Fay, of Walpole; married second, May, 1834, Alonzo Hubbard, of Walpole. She died Jan. 31, 1841. Had by last husband, George and Julius, of whom George was living, 1885, in Westmoreland, N. H.
- 293. vii. Joseph, born June 19, 1798.
- viii. Abraham, born May 15, 1801; married Mar. 20, 1827, Daphna Carter, Roxbury, N. H., who died 1863. He married second Elisabeth Thomas. He died in Washington, D. C., April 15, 1883. No children.

138. DEA. ASA CUMMINGS (Thomas,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Abraham,³ John,² Isaac¹) married, Jan. 22, 1782, Hannah Peabody, sister of his brother Stephen's wife. She was born June 29, 1763 and died Feb. 22, 1796. He married second, May 25, 1797, Lydia Holt, daughter of Dane and Lydia (Ballard) Holt, of Andover. He died Feb. 22, 1845. He removed in 1798 from Andover, North Parish, to the new settlement in Albany, Me. Of the children, Enoch, the first Asa, Hannah, Susanna, John, Francis, Sarah and Lydia are recorded in the town books as born in Andover. He was a prominent man in the affairs of town and church. He represented the district, to which Albany belonged, in the General Court in 1803. He was early chosen deacon of the church. As the settlement was small and remained small and often was without a pastor or minister, Deacon Cummings held a good congregation reading sermons and conducting the service of prayer. He was very well fitted for such service, being a good reader and having a fervent and appropriate expression in prayer. Rev. Geo. F. Tewkesbury, who was his pastor in later years, says of him: "He was an interesting and intelligent old gentleman. I always enjoyed calling upon him; he was so social and pleasant." He retained his vivacity and interest in whatever promoted the welfare of his townsmen in his old age. He was president, for one instance, of the Temperance Society in 1831.

The following paragraphs are taken from an editorial notice by his son, the editor of the Christian Mirror.

"From our earliest recollection till we left the paternal home, Deacon Cummings was undeviatingly punctual in reading the Scriptures, in connection with morning and evening devotions, and his family prayers were distinguished for fervor and earnestness. No one can estimate how much evil this habit prevented, or of how much good it was the occasion in so numerous a family. We can distinctly recollect that the chapter of the morning, especially if it were from the historical part of the Old Testament, sometimes furnished topics for speculation, or converse to 'the boys,' when pursuing the labors of the subsequent day.

"At that time, too, he practised himself, and exacted of his children, a strict observance of the Lord's Day; and often devoted the closing portion of the day to the faithful and protracted inculcation of religious instruction upon them, in which the Shorter Catechism was a family classic. For these habits they have cause to bless his memory; for family prayer and Sabbath keeping have not been wholly in vain to them—ten of the children being connected with the Christian Church.

"Beyond his family, the part he performed in sustaining public worship, we have regarded as his most useful labor for the community. It was not, if our memory is not in fault, till about the year 1828, that a minister was settled in Albany; but the public worship of God was maintained there from the first settlement of the place. From 1800, the chief responsibility of conducting public worship fell upon Deacon Cummings. Some of the time he had a colleague in office, and sometimes a brother in the church would read one of the sermons, while he led the devotions of the Assembly.

"Deacon Cummings was pre-eminent for physical strength, and a hard laboring man; but he not unfrequently returned from his Sabbath labors, spent and exhausted. We have repeatedly heard him speak of his efforts on this day as the most severe of the week."

CHILDREN:

- i. Enoch, born Dec. 24, 1782; married Lydia Reed, of Freeport, Me. He was a school teacher. He died 1813 in the neighborhood of the Santee Hills in South Carolina. The Free Masons took care of his remains which were brought to the house of Daniel Cummings in Freeport, Me. She married second, — Edes, and had one daughter.
Children:

9. David.
10. Lewis.
11. Maria Griffith.
12. Enoch Cummings.
13. Asa Cummings.
14. Phebe Cummings, born Feb. 23, 1850.
Asa and Phebe were cared for as children in the family of their grandfather and grandmother, whose names they bore. Asa married Kate Hall and had Emma and Harry C. Phebe married Oscar Weil, in San Francisco, and had Leopold Reginald, born July 9, 1873, who married — Blow, in Oakland, Cal., and have a daughter.

2. Caroline, married.
3. Harriet, married — Griffin.

ii. Asa, born Apr. 4, 1784; died Oct. 18 (23), 1786.

iii. Hannah, born Oct. 23, 1785; married, Sept. 29, 1814, Isaac Stevens, born in Andover (North Parish), Mass., May 10, 1785. She died Nov. 3, 1827. He married second, Nov. 27, 1828, Elizabeth Poor, who died Jan. 15, 1866. He died Aug. 22, 1862. When a young man, before his marriage Mr. Stevens took up wild land in Andover, Me., and in clearing it he broke one of his legs so as to be lamed for life. He returned to his native town. He was an industrious and enterprising farmer. He early became the owner of the farm bordering on the Great Pond. He also acquired at various times other tracts of land in the neighborhood. He arose early and kept all hands busy. He took interest in many young men of his kindred and gave them a start in life. His mind was quick and intense. He was a radical in his opinions, being one of the earliest to espouse the anti-slavery cause. The Liberator was a welcome visitor at his fireside. He loved knowledge and encouraged education, and every agency that seemed to him likely to enlarge the ideas and improve the thrift of the community. His children, all by the first marriage, were:

1. Hannah, born Sept. 4, 1815; died Nov. 1, 1840.

2. Susan Bragg, born Feb. 24, 1817; married Dec. 25, 1839, David H. Bishop; died Apr. 8, 1841.
3. Isaac Ingalls, born Mar. 25, 1818; married Margaret Lyman Hazard. He had a brilliant record as a cadet at West Point Military Academy, where he was graduated in 1839, with the first rank. He was appointed Second Lieut. Engineers, in 1839, and First Lieut. the following year. He was made Brevet Captain, Aug. 20, 1847, for gallant and meritorious conduct at Contreras and Churubusco in the Mexican War. On Sept. 13 he became Brevet Major for gallant and meritorious conduct at Chapultepec. At the capture of Mexico he was severely wounded. He superintended fortifications on the New England coast for some years till 1849, when he had charge of the coast survey office in Washington, D. C. He was appointed Governor of Washington Territory in 1853; surveyed the northern route for the Pacific R. R.; conducted the Indian war of following years and made treaties with the Indians. He was elected delegate to Congress and served two terms. In the Presidential campaign of 1860 he was chairman of the Breckenridge wing of the Democratic party. But at the outbreak of the war, he hastened from the Pacific Coast to offer his services for the Government, and was appointed Colonel of the 79th Regiment, N. Y. Volunteers. He was commissioned as a Brigadier-General in 1862, and took part in the Port Royal expedition. He was made a Major-General the same year and served under Gen. Pope. While leading his division in the battle of Chantilly, he was killed with the colors of the 79th Regiment in his hands. His children were:
 1. Hazard, born June 9, 1842. Captain at Chantilly and wounded there; afterwards a lawyer in Boston.
 2. Sue, born Nov. 20, 1846, married, Oct. 27, 1870, Richard J. Eskridge, Captain in U. S. Army.
 3. Gertrude Maude, born Apr. 29, 1850.
 4. Kate, born Nov. 28, 1852, married E. W. Bingham, born in Portland, Ore.; at the time of marriage a lawyer of Williamsport, Penn.

4. Elizabeth Barker, born July 14, 1819; married, Sept. 8, 1842, L. M. Campbell, of Tennessee. She died Dec. 10, 1846, leaving an infant who lived but five days.
 5. Sarah Ann, born Jan. 13, 1822, died Feb. 8, 1844.
 6. Mary Jane, born Aug. 15, 1823; died June 22, 1847.
 7. Oliver, born June 22, 1825; married, Nov. 22, 1855, Catherine, his cousin, daughter of Nathaniel and Harriet Hale Stevens. Graduate of Bowdoin College, lawyer in Boston and City Attorney many years. Retained for his summer home the old place in Andover.
- iv. Aaron, born Jan. 14, 1787; married Susan Stone, of Waterford, Me. Married second Mrs. Nancy (Bradbury) North, who died Mar. 19, 1863. He died Aug. 30, 1854. He lived most of his life in Albany, Me., a farmer. He was an exemplary and trusted citizen and a consistent Christian. He was deacon in the Congregational Church of the town. He was a member of the Legislature in 1831. His latter years were spent in Portland, Me., where he died.
- v. Susanna, born Apr. 29, 1789; married, May 1, 1826, Benjamin Moore, his second marriage, his first wife having been Phebe Chandler by whom he had had nine children. He was born in Andover, Sept. 3, 1770. He was a carpenter by trade. In his middle life he became lame from rheumatism, and this increased so as to make it difficult for him to follow his business. He was a handy man, who could do almost any kind of work to which he gave attention, in a neat and skillful way. For many years, however, he was obliged to stay mostly in or about the house, and the support of the family fell upon the wife. He died Jan. 17, 1855. She died in Medford, Mass., July 16, 1868. The circumstances of her death were painful. Her son, after an absence of seven years, had just returned from California, with his wife and two children. The next morning after their arrival Mrs. Mooar, having her baby granddaughter in her arms, fell from the top of the stairs, and died almost instantly. The child's forehead was severely cut also. This mother, whose end came so suddenly, had been from girlhood hard-working. In her young womanhood she lived for a time with the father of Rev. Dr. Israel Putnam in Danvers; later in the household of Deacon Mark Newman, principal of Phillips Academy, but at this time a publisher and book-seller in Andover. After her marriage, she was often called upon to do various services as housekeeper and nurse in the families of the town. Her services were highly appreciated, and she won the confidence and respect of all. Her advantages for mental improvement had been small and leisure she never knew. But she was a lover of good books and especially was a reverent and intelligent reader of the Bible. She was a member of the West Parish Congregational Church and an honest and faithful disciple. Her record would certainly read, "She hath done what she could." Her children were:

1. Hannah Jane, born July 18, 1827; married June 20, 1849, Henry Burrige, of Medford, Mass., who died there Aug. 29, 1885. Their children were:

1. Nellie Angier, born Apr. 8, 1855, and married to Fred. Addison Tucker; had four children.

2. Emma Gertrude, born Nov. 2, 1859; died May 13, 1865.

George, born May 27, 1830; married, Oct. 5, 1855, Sarah Ann, daughter of Arnold and Lucy (Clark) Comstock, of Centerbrook, Ct., born Aug. 30, 1828; died in Oakland, Cal., Sept. 29, 1899. Mr. Moor spent three years, 1840-43, in Albany, Me., with his uncle, Leonard Cummings (299). Returning home he was graduated at Phillips Academy, 1847; Williams College, 1851; Andover Seminary, 1855, and the same year was ordained pastor of the South Church in his native town. For reason of the health of his wife after six years he accepted the call of the recently organized First Congregational Church, Oakland, Cal., which he served till 1872, having, however, in 1870, been chosen Professor of Systematic Theology and church history in the Pacific Theological Seminary. During 1874-89 he was pastor also of the Plymouth Avenue Church in Oakland. At the death of Prof. Jos. A. Benton, his chair became that of Apologetics and the connexion of science and the Christian religion. Children:

1. Rachel born July 13, 1856; married June 28, 1877, Rev. George H. Smith, born Dec. 21, 1847, Lancaster, O. Wittenberg College, Ohio, 1870. Pacific Theological Seminary, 1876; Congregational pastor, Reovista and Redwood City, Cal.; Kohala on Hawaii, Columbia Church, Cincinnati, O., and St. Charles, Ill.; Professor of the Latin language in Wheaton College, Illinois. Children:

1. Sarah Katharine, born June 19, 1878, Rio Vista.
 2. Winnifred, born Nov. 25, 1879, Redwood.
 3. Rachel Mooar, born Jan. 19, 1881, Kohala; died Dec. 11, 1902.
 4. George Mooar, born May 3, 1884, Lancaster, O.
 5. Larmon Lane, born Sept. 26, 1889, St. Charles.
 6. Willard Benton, born Dec. 8, 1893, at St. Charles; died Jan. 31, 1894.
2. Lucy, born Jan. 16, 1859; married Feb. 21, 1889, Rev. Edson Dwinell Hale, born Jan. 10, 1859, Lyndon, Vt. Amherst College, 1882; teacher in Hopkins Academy 1882-7; Pacific Theological Seminary, 1888; ordained at Clayton, Cal. After three years there, pastor at Lincoln; in 1897, at Niles and Decoto. Children:
1. Mary Gilman, born Dec. 11, 1889.
 2. Agnes Sarah, born Jan. 6, 1891; died July 1, 1891.
 3. Elizabeth, born Feb. 18, 1892; died July 19, 1892.
 4. Helen Norton, born May 21, 1894.
 5. Lucy Dwinell, born Feb. 21, 1898.
3. Agnes, born Aug. 21, 1860. Wellesley College 1882, teacher Wellesley High School 1882-5; Prep. Department Oahu College 1886-8. Married, June 24, 1897, Bartholomew Skeats Noyes, attorney at law, San Francisco; resided Oakland. Child:
1. Elizabeth, born Mar. 6, 1901.
4. Harriet Willard, born Nov. 9, 1866; married, Apr. 22, 1889, Archibald Welch Comstock, born May 25, 1860, in Ivoryton, Conn. Child:
1. Elliott Mooar, born Oct. 20, 1891.

294. vi. Asa, born Sept. 29, 1790.

295. vii. John, born Mar. 9, 1792.

296. viii. Francis (Peabody), born Apr. 25, 1793.

ix. Sarah, born Oct. 12, 1794. A woman of very devoted spirit;

a student at the academy at North Yarmouth, Me., where she became a member of the Baptist Church in 1824. She offered herself for missionary service; "the first unmarried woman sent out by the Missionary Union." She left America with Dr. Judson and arrived at Burmah in Dec. 1832. Her station was at Chummereh, on the Salwen river. She was stricken by fever the first year and returned to Maulmain. Resumed her labors during the next year, but was obliged to yield again to the fever, and died at Maulmain, Aug. 1, 1834. "She was," writes a fellow student, "a tall, spare woman, plain in feature and severely plain in dress, with a face, when in repose, deeply thoughtful, especially when in earnest study, having the appearance of perfect unconsciousness to everything going on around her, but in social life glowing with a fine intellectual cheerfulness and vivacious humor." A memorial sketch of her was written by Mounq Sheway Goon her Karen teacher. It was translated and is given in the Rev. E. C. Cummings' pamphlet, entitled "Mission to Burmah," 1892.

He bought, the same year with his marriage, a farm of more than 250 acres in Tewksbury; very valuable for farming purposes, heavily wooded also. Mr. Rogers was son of Timothy and Ruth Rogers. This farm which was in the part of Tewkesbury afterwards joined to the city of Lowell, continued in the family intact and by the growth of the city became of increased value. Included in it was a hill called Fort Hill, called so because in 1669 some Indians built there a fort for protection against the Mohawks. The 34 acres embracing the hill was twice offered by Emily and Elizabeth to the city for a park, first in 1871 and again in 1873, but the city did not accept the conditions. In 1883-6 a syndicate purchased portions of the farm and secured the Fort Hill tract in trust from the Messrs Rogers, on condition of spending $25,000 in laying out and embellishing the grounds. This was done and the Hill was deeded to the city and called Rogers Fort Hill Park. The sisters had previously given to the American Bible Society of New York a fund of $50,000 in perpetual memorial of their father and mother.

171. JONATHAN CUMMINGS (Jonathan,⁵ David,⁴ John,³ Isaac,² Isaac¹) married Joanna, daughter of Maj. Jedediah and Abigail J. Cobb, of Gray, Me., born Feb. 2, 1784. She married second Capt. Charles Barbour, in 1823, by whom she had two children, Martha Maria, born Sept. 27, 1824, and married Rev. William Plaisted Merrill; and Abigail Reed, born June 13, 1827, and married William Deering. The mother died

June 30, 1844. Maj. Cummings became a resident in Norway, Me., on the large tracts bought by his father and known as "Cummings' Purchase" and "Cummings' Gore." His grant was sold quite rapidly to purchasers, not a few of whom came from Andover, Mass. He put up buildings before 1793, for we read of a school kept by a Miss Abigail Symonds that year in his barn and of one kept by his maternal uncle, Job Eastman, in his house. In 1804 he built a saw-mill on the little stream which is the outlet of Little Pennessseewassee Pond. This mill was taken down and built farther down the stream in 1806. He was, though not himself member of the church, so interested in the establishment of the Congregational Church, as to undertake the building of a meeting-house in 1808 on his own responsibility. In 1806, he purchased of Phillips Academy the half township granted to that Academy, which forms the south half of the town of Greenwood. "To induce settlers to occupy it, he sold the lots at a low price and took much of his pay in labor and lumber and in the products of the farms, from which he realized but little money. He purchased the land on credit, and gave back a mortgage to secure the payments, and neglecting to meet his notes and interest when they became due, he was at length obliged to mortgage his own farm to keep good the security. He soon became hopelessly embarrassed, and the parties who had purchased lands of him neglecting to take quit-claims of the mortgages, became liable to lose these farms, or be obliged to pay for them a second time, which eventually was the case with many of them. Major Cummings bore up under his accumulated burden for a while, but finally his mind became affected, and in an attack of mental derangement, he committed suicide, a first attempt a few months previous having failed." (Cent. Hist. Norway, p. 352.) He died July 12, 1820. He was captain of militia in 1800, and promoted to be major in the regiment in 1804. Mr. David Noyes, an old citizen of Norway and its first historian, says of him: "He was naturally of an obliging, kind disposition and very cheerful in his everyday deportment, which caused him to become a favorite with all who became acquainted with him. From the early settlement of the town up to near the time of his death, there was probably no man in the place who could exercise so great an influence as Major Cummings."

He left Hancock, when a boy, "with," as he wrote, "pack on my back and staff in my hand, without father or mothee, and without home and no one to care for me." For several years he was in the tin business at Templeton, Mass.; removed to Worcester, and engaged in manufacture of envelopes and was remarkably successful. He loved, and knew how to make, money; but also to distribute it. His former pastor, Rev. Geo. W. Phillips, said at his funeral, July 12, 1887: "For forty-four years he has been disbursing. He was sponsor for the salary of more than one of that devoted 'Iowa Band,' and churches all over the Western land are monuments of his generosity. He was not only a liberal, but a sagacious giver. Even more than for his generosity we should remember him for his simple, unobtrusive piety." Besides what he gave in his life-time, he made in his will the following bequests: Am. Bd. Com. for For. Missions, $25,000; Mass. H. M. Soc., $25,000; Am. Coll. and Ed. Soc., $5,000; Cong. Union, $3,000; Doane College, $13,000; Carleton College, $14,000; Am. Home Miss. 235. REV. SENECA CUMMINGS (Samuel,^a Ebenezer,^b William,^c John,^d John,^e Isaac^f) married, Oct. 4, 1847, Abigail Maria Stearns, daughter of Jesse and Lucinda (Davis) Stearns, born 1822, graduated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary. He died Aug. 12, 1856, of erysipelas, in New Ipswich, N. H. He was fitted at Kimball Union Academy, and was graduated, D. C., 1844, and Union Theological Seminary 1847. His ordination took place Oct. 30, 1847. The following was contributed to the Putnam Recorder, by the Rev. Dr. Anderson, secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions:

"Sailing from Philadelphia in the ship Valparaiso, with associates, Nov. 11, 1847, they (Mr. and Mrs. Cummings), arrived at their remote post in the following May. There, in the valley of the Min, amid a population of two millions easily accessible, and within the borders of the largest and oldest nation in the world, our departed brother found ample scope for all his abilities, and the most perfect contentment in his work. It was a time of preparation. The first gospel sounds that ever broke upon the ear of that people were uttered by members of that mission, only a short time before his arrival. But he knew that the forest must be cleared, the ground broken, and the seed sown before there could be a harvest; and for that they have all had to wait. In fact, he heard of the first convert, the first admission to the church, the first fruits of the great harvest that is yet to be, only just before his departure hence, and almost the last utterance heard from his lips by the writer were expressions of his great pleasure at the event. This was on Thursday, the day before his decease. There were some who then noticed what proved to be the commencement of his fatal disease. But he made no allusion to his own illness, and was as sweet-tempered, as cheerful, as hopeful as ever. The opening prospects of the gospel in China, and his own return thither were the topics of conversation. Though the writer has loved and confided in him in an unusual degree from his first acquaintance, Mr. Cummings never left so delightful an impression of his character as he did that day. His disease was alarming on Monday, and began visibly to affect the vital organs. His mind became confused and disordered. In the evening, there was an affecting exhibition of the ruling passion, strong in death. He fancied the Chinese once more before him, and for some time, till his strength failed, he proclaimed the gospel to them in their native tongue. This done, he yielded to the overpowering disease, and spake no more on earth. Next morning, at half-past seven, he went to his everlasting rest.

"The combination of qualities in the character of this departed missionary produced a result of rare excellence. There was a balance of the intellectual and emotional faculties; and these being sanctified by grace, there was a clearness of the judgment and a calmness and sweetness of manner which made him a most valuable member of the mission. His associates, when they hear of his death, will feel that they have sustained an irreparable loss."

241. REV. HIRAM CUMMINGS (Thomas,⁶ Jonathan,⁵ Jonathan,⁴ Thomas,³ John,² Isaac¹) married June 14, 1835, Lavina, daughter of Thomas and Sally (McCarter) Soule, of Duxbury, Mass., descended from George Soule, who came in the Mayflower. He died in San Francisco Dec. 10, 1887. Mr. C.'s early opportunities for education were meagre. He came under the power of religious motives in his young manhood. He used to recall how he walked from Concord, Vt., to Francestown, N. H., and thence to Lowell, Mass., where his sister, Elizabeth, then lived. For a time he attended an academy in Marlboro, Mass., and soon began to exhort, and was set to work on the circuit with Rev. A. D. Merrill, a prominent Methodist Episcopal minister. One of his earliest stations was at Saxonville, Mass., where several marked conversions occurred under his labors. He early enlisted in the anti-slavery campaign, in which he was an earnest speaker. The tidings of gold being found in California turned his attention thither, and he came, as leading spirit, in a company organized in Boston, which reached San Francisco Sept. 1, 1849. He had been ordained as a Methodist preacher at Nantucket, Mass., in 1837, having also previously had pastoral charges in Warwick, R. I.; Pawtucket and Woonsocket. During the time he was engaged in the anti-slavery agitation, he resided in Duxbury, where his children were born. After several years of various activity in California, he became connected with the Congregational Churches, and was pastor at Oroville, Pescadero, Dutch Flat, Auburn and Rocklin. In several campaigns he took the stump for the candidates of the Republicans. He traveled widely over the State for Fremont in 1856, Governor Stanford in 1861, Lincoln in 1864, and Grant in 1868. In 1871 he was chaplain of the House, at Sacramento; in 1880-2, moral instructor at the State prison, in San Quentin. The latter years his sympathies were with the Prohibition party, and he was their candidate for State Senator. Mr. and Mrs. C. celebrated their golden wedding at Rocklin, 1885. She died Sept. 9, 1889, in San Francisco.

He married, third, July 29, 1817, Susannah Willard. Soon after, or about the time of his first marriage, he removed from Dunstable to Wilton, Me., where his first three children were born. Subsequently he located in Chesterville, near to, or part of, Farmington, in the same county, Kennebec, where the rest of his children were born. Until late in life he was not a professor of religion, though he was always a believer of the Bible. He was a man of strict morality, temperate and industrious habits, broad views, and possessed more than an average degree of intelligence. During much of the time of his residence in Maine he owned and run a saw mill. He also owned and cultivated a farm, and was in fairly prosperous circumstances. In or about the year 1837 some elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints introduced the religion of their sect in Farmington, where he was then residing. He among others, embraced their teachings, and at length located in Nauvoo, Ill., in the year 1840. At the time of the exodus of his co-religionists from that city, he forsook his worldly possessions and started West with them, under circumstances of great privation. Late in the year 1846 he reached Winter Quarters, now Florence, Neb., on the west bank of the Missouri river, and during the succeeding winter he and his family suffered terribly from want, exposure and hardship, which at length resulted in the death of himself and his wife, Susanna. She succumbed first, dying Feb. 28, 1847, and he died Mar. 28, following.

Mrs. Hannah Eaton Cummings died in Temple, Me., and an obituary was written (the copy of which is dated Wilton, Feb. 1, 1832), by Mrs. Susanna Randall, from which we gather an exceedingly delightful impression of her character. She is spoken of as having experienced religion in 1808 at Salem, Mass., under the labors of the Rev. Joshua Spaulding. Her natural diffidence delayed her public profession till 1814, when she became a member of the Congregational church in Andover, where she then resided. On removal to Maine, she became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. "She seemed to enjoy most of the animating grace of God when she was enabled to perform the most self-denying duties. This was particularly the case when, after much reflection and on a full conviction that it was her duty, she went forward to the family altar, approached it with holy boldness morning and evening, and offered her fervent prayers to Almighty God during her husband's absence in 1817, which duty she was never known to neglect, let her company or family consist of whom it might."

CHILDREN:

- i. Stephen Osgood, born Feb. 21, 1810, and died in Solon, Me., May 18, 1835. In the obituary prepared by Mrs. Susannah Randall, his aunt, we are told that at the age of 13, at family prayer, he arose with exclamations of joy and praise on account of a suddenly received hope in Christ. He soon united with the Methodist Episcopal Church and continued constantly growing in the new life. In October, 1834, with another brother, he visited friends in Ohio, in hope of milder winter. But his disease, pulmonary consumption, gained rapidly. He gave the best of evidence to his friends, in his sickness, that it was well with him.

294. REV. ASA CUMMINGS, D.D. (Asa,⁶ Thomas,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Abraham,³ John,² Isaac¹), married, Oct. 1, 1821, Phebe Johnson, of Andover, Mass., daughter of William and Mary (Marble) Johnson, born Jan. 4, 1790. She died Mar. 7, 1874. He died June 5, 1856. When he was about eight years old, his father removed to Albany, Me., and the boy's life was spent for the next decade on the farm in that new settlement. At the age of sixteen he made a profession of his faith in Christ. Two years after his father gave him his time to enable him to secure the education he desired. He left Albany May 8, 1811, and went on foot to Andover, his native town, and entered Phillips Academy, then under the care of Mr. John Adams. He was greatly straitened for means to continue his studies, but by dint of economy and industry, and the help of some friends, was graduated from Harvard College in 1817, and after a few months' teaching in Danvers, entered the Theological Seminary at Andover, belonging to the class which graduated in 1820. During his course his health became so reduced that he took a journey under medical advice. But he was tutor in Bowdoin College during 1819-20.

He was ordained pastor of the First Church in North Yarmouth, Me., Feb. 14, 1821. During the year of his tutorship, says Prof. A. S. Packard, in an address at the 150th anniversary of the North Yarmouth Church, "he preached occasionally and I recall particularly the interest excited by his sermons on the day of the annual fast, which so impressed faculty and students and the congregation that a copy was requested for the press, which he yielded, and which, I suppose, was his first appearance in print. He in that year's service manifested those traits of character, rich endowments of intellect and taste, consummate wisdom in council and delicate humor, which gave promise of the influence he was to exert in subsequent years."

His pastorate continued about five years. Prof. Packard thus spoke of the occasion which compelled his dismissal: "Though of large frame and apparently of great strength, he had suffered during college life while keeping school at Beverly, Mass., from the effects of improper treatment of measles, at first supposed to be small pox, for which he was sent to a pest house, and there incurred a tendency to pulmonic disease, which in after years compelled him to retire from the labor of the pulpit." His labors ceased, although his nominal relation continued until the ordination of his successor, Mr. Shepley, Feb. 17, 1829. But he was transferred to a sphere of large usefulness, for he was chosen editor of the Christian Mirror, published at Portland in the interest of the Congregational churches of Maine. His name appears as in editorial charge of the paper, Aug. 18, 1826. It was then published by Arthur Shirley. He continued to give it his best energies for 29 years, "by his facile pen, his abundant mental resources and his masterly command of them, giving it a prominent position in religious journalism." The paper passed in 1833 into the ownership of the Maine Missionary Society, but he was continued as editor. Those years were trying years for the public mind. Questions were at issue concerning the subject of slavery in the United States and the responsibility of the churches for its overthrow, which divided good men. It was difficult to satisfy the extremes. By the aid of friends, in 1845, he became the proprietor of the Mirror. Dr. Cummings was not a radical. His mind was prudent and cautious. His nephew, Rev. Ephraim C. Cummings, has said: "Amid the heated agitations of the time, with a candid judgment and broad sympathies, he aimed to realise the law of righteousness without violating the claims of social order and public peace. He desired to prosecute to its issue in the forum of conscience and reason that great trial of interests and passions which, as we now see, was hurrying on to the arbitrament of war."

This allusion to the course of the Mirror in regard to the Anti-Slavery issue would be unfortunate, if it led to the inference that the editor's strength was expended in controversy. The farthest from it. His mind was too large and his heart too wide to be chiefly an antagonist. He prepared his paper for intelligent observers of whatever was going on in the better life of the world. He was himself a careful observer. The writer of this remembers that the pages of the paper never seemed so bright to him, when a child, as when he could see a column of editorial writing under the head of "Itinerary," for his uncle's notices of men and scenes that fell under his eye in traveling were appreciative, suggestive and gracefully expressed.

Not long after the death of Rev. Dr. Edward Payson, of Portland, Dr. Cummings prepared the well-known memoir of that eminent pastor and preacher.

Prof. Packard says, "he edited an edition of the odes of the Poet Collins; that was in his early manhood. But the fact suggests that he had a superior literary taste and was more than a merely forcible and logical writer. He loved and attained in no meagre measure felicities of style." He wrote also a memoir of Marion L. Hurd, of Fryeburg, 18mo.

From Bowdoin College he received in 1846 the degree of D.D. From 1849 to his death he was a trustee of that institution; 1825-48 a trustee of the Maine Missionary Society; a corporate member of the A. B. C. He held many other positions of honor and trust and service, and was a citizen of recognized wisdom and influence.

In March, 1856, he went to Panama to visit his daughter, wife of the Seamen's Chaplain at that port. He remained there longer than he anticipated. His health was rather injured than benefited by the stay. There, however, he showed his ever active sympathy with Christian service. He preached several times at Panama and Aspinwall. The little prayer meeting on Wednesday evening he was much interested in. The last one he attended was held in his room on account of his feebleness. At its close he requested to have sung the hymn "With joy we meditate the grace of our High Priest Above." He took a chill at Aspinwall on his way home in June, which left little hope of recovery—none at all if he remained where he was. By advice of physicians he went on board the steamer. His mind was wandering, but among the ejaculations that caught the ear of his attendants was "Pour out Thy Spirit upon Zion." On the second night out, June 5, 1856, he fell asleep. The next morning, after a short funeral service by the Rev. Dr. John Sessions, of Albany, N. Y., his body was committed to the deep, 14-13° north latitude, 77-51° west longitude.

CHILDREN:

- 504 i. Henry Thornton, born Nov. 12, 1822.
- ii. Hannah, born Nov. 30, 1824; married Oct. 11, 1852, Rev. Joseph Rowell, son of Rev. Joseph and Hannah (Chase) Rowell, of Cornish, N. H., born there Apr. 22, 1820. She died in San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 15, 1879. She accompanied her husband to the Isthmus of Panama and shared with him the privations and labors of that trying climate for five years. In 1858, Mr. Rowell entered upon the work for the seamen in the city of San Francisco. The Mariner's Church was organized, Nov. 25, 1858, with six members, Mr. and Mrs. Rowell being enrolled with them. In the work of that church, Mrs. Rowell was deeply interested and constantly useful. She was a woman of self-sacrificing spirit, of quick sympathy with the suffering and the poor, and ready at all hours to extend a helping hand. Children:

296. FRANCIS PEABODY CUMMINGS (Asa,* Thomas,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Abraham,³ John,² Isaac¹), married, 1816-17, Lois Chamberlain, daughter of Dea. Ephraim and Lois (Barret) Chamberlain, of Waterford, Me., born May 29, 1795, and died Apr. 28, 1838. He married, second, Mary Ann Frost, daughter of Joel and Susanna (Fowler) Frost, of Norway, Me., who was born Jan. 20, 1807, and who died Jan. 20, 1848. He married, third, May 20, 1851, Hepzibah S. Holt, daughter of Timothy Holt, of Bethel, Me., who was born Jan. 25, 1805, and died Mar. 23, 1884. He died Sept. 14, 1863. As he was only about five years old when his father penetrated the rough wilderness where his home was made, he enjoyed only the pioneer advantages of education. Of him, his son, Ephraim, writes: "He was a man of fair intellectual gifts, very solid physical and moral endowments, uncommon public spirit and large benevolence. One episode of his life he occasionally referred to with peculiar interest. He served as a soldier in the war of the Revolution and while his regiment was in Portland, he became deeply interested in the preaching of Dr. Payson, of which he ever retained a fresh and grateful impression. But this was not all. He contracted a lasting friendship with a comrade, John Chamberlain. When the two were returning home, after their discharge, pausing a little, as was natural in the family of his friend, he met the young woman who became his wife.

She was not a person of robust health and died deeply lamented at the age of 43. My father's homestead was about a mile, as the crow flies, from his father's place. He chose it with excellent practical judgment, and always evinced a wise forecast as to what he wished to do with it. This forecast was by no means disregarding of the beauty of the ever-glorious landscape which the farm commanded.

"But he was never content, as many thought he might well have been with simply the cultivation of even a large farm. He made pioneer essays with more of toil than success—in various enterprises, which became fruitful sources of gain at a later stage of the country's development. He liked to process himself of wild land. . . . He concerned himself in mills for the manufacture of lumber. He was much interested in water power. The public highways were a study to him; and when he was 'surveyor,' if the mountains were not brought low, the valleys, at any rate, were exalted. He was a born civil engineer; if a path did not make the right course, he prophesied against it. A devout member of the Congregational Church, his religion was ethical rather than emotional.

Nothing that concerned the moral and spiritual development of society was a matter of indifference to him. But he could not be aroused to special zeal and specific pledges by any reforming agitation that seemed to him to ignore the right and duty of the church to be the conscience of the world. His devotion to temperance or to any other good aim, was defined by his Christian profession, as he understood it."

He was instrumental in forming churches there and in Keene, Swansey, Marlboro, Peterboro, Hillsboro, Lyndeboro and Antrim. The last years of his life he labored in Pottersville, N. H. He died in Roxbury, Dec. 27, 1849. He struggled for some years after his marriage with the conviction that he ought to preach the Gospel, feeling deeply his incompetency, having but a limited education, such as was furnished by the common schools of those days. But his convictions prevailed over his fears.

"A man of great energy and earnestness, not shrinking from any sacrifice for the good of the cause he loved so well and labored so faithfully to sustain. Nothing but utter inability could deter him from meeting his appointments, many times traveling until late in the night, and through the scorching heats and drenching rains of summer. Having a strong physical constitution, he was able to endure the arduous labors through which he passed. He never wrote his sermons, but in the early work of his ministry he would select a text of Scripture before going to the field (for at this time he tilled the soil), and while laboring with his hands he mentally studied and wrought out his sermons."

He died in Fitzwilliam, N. H., June 30, 1882. He took the degree of M. D. at Dartmouth College in 1827. He was postmaster in Fitzwilliam, 1855-60; justice of the peace 40 years; active in the organization and management of the public library in 1851 onward; member of the legislature in 1874; superintendent of the Sunday-school for 25 years; greatly interested in the public schools and long a member of the town committee. He was also prominent in the Masonic order. In the local memorial given of him, soon after his death, allusion was made to his long and successful practice as a physician, for fifty-five years. The writer said:

"It is a very rare case for a man to retain the confidence of the people and to have the health to perform those duties for so long a period. He was an earnest student, always reading when riding, and in later years when accompanied by a companion, he would have them read to him. In this manner he was enabled to keep abreast with the times, and to keep posted in all the new discoveries in the science which he loved. He was always ready to take up the remedies recommended by the medical profession. No better proof or higher praise could be awarded him (also showing the interest the doctor had in his profession) than the answer given by a wholesale druggist in Boston to a merchant in this town when calling for a medicine. Said he: 'That is a new medicine just discovered and cannot be had as yet.' He also said: 'On our books we have accounts with hundreds of physicians and druggists, and Dr. Cummings has bought of us for more than thirty years, and he is the first to call for all these new discoveries.'"

430. REV. ELAM JEWETT COMINGS (Andrew,¹ Benjamin,⁶ Samuel,⁵ John,⁴ John,³ John,² Isaac¹) married at Enosburg, Vt., Feb. 1, 1839, Fanny Woodbury, daughter of Comings and Sarah (Wheeler) Fletcher. When he was 20 years of age his father offered him a good farm as an inducement to be a farmer. He declined the offer, and without pecuniary aid went through a regular course of nine years, ending with ten dollars more in his pocket than he had when he started. He graduated at Oberlin College in 1838. He was fitted for college at Kimball Union Academy, Meriden, N. H. He graduated from the theological department at Oberlin in 1841. He spent three years following the completion of his studies with a small anti-slavery church in Frederickstown, O. His proclamation of the gospel of liberty was violently opposed, often with stones, rotten eggs and other similar arguments of that day. But revivals followed and the hated doctrines became ascendant. In Montpelier, Vt., he spent four years. Dec. 5, 1848, he became pastor of the Union Evangelical Church, Haverhill, Mass. He was dismissed from that charge in the spring of 1852. He did his most successful work in Gustavus, O., where he was pastor eight years. The next eleven years were spent with the churches in E. Berkshire, Fairfield and Highgate, Vt. The winter of 1864, with his daughter Sarah, he spent in North Carolina among the freedmen and the soldiers in hospitals, "a winter of happy toil and good results." During the years since the war he has engaged in self-sustaining missionary labors in Northern Ohio. He has made a point of assisting young men to prepare for work, which increasing age obliged him to lay down. Resided in 1887 in North Kingsville, O., where he died Nov. 23, 1894.

His pastor wrote of him: "Brother Cummings has lived in this community for nearly half a century. It is no strain upon the facts to say that in all the relations of his life, as friend, neighbor, citizen, Christian, father, and husband, he has been in the highest sense a most exemplary man. This was what he most desired to be. For sixty years he has had an active and open relation to the kingdom of Christ, having been identified in all these years with the Congregational family thereof. Religion with him was reduced to a single great cardinal truth—faithfulness to duty."

"Ever faithful to his patients, he had neither time nor inclination for office-holding or office-seeking, and no matter what the weather or the distance might be, a call to visit the sick was always answered, if within his power. Ever cheerful and of an equable temperament, his very presence was a help in the sick-room.

"Of his standing in the community, the large concourse of people at the funeral bore testimony. From far and near people came to do him honor, and it was most appropriate that the public school should be dismissed, and that they attend the funeral in a body, for truly he was the children's friend."

526. REV. JOSEPH CUMMINGS, D.D., LL. D. (Cyrus,⁷ Nathaniel,⁶ Elisha,⁵ Isaac,⁴ Isaac,³ Isaac,² Isaac¹) married, Aug. 15, 1842, Deborah S. Haskell, born June 29, 1816. He graduated from the Wesleyan University in 1840; taught natural sciences and mathematics, Amenia Seminary, N. Y., 1840-3; principal of that seminary, 1843-6; joined New England Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, 1846; pastor, successively, in Malden and in Chelsea, in Hanover street and Bromfield street, Boston, in each case being pastor as long as the rules of the church permitted; in 1853 was chosen professor of theology in the General Biblical Institute, Concord, N. H., but accepted rather the position of president of Genessee College, Lima, N. Y., which he held for three years. During the years 1857-75 he was president of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and retained two years longer the professorship of mental philosophy and political economy in the same institution; 1877-9 he was pastor of M. E. Church, Malden, Mass.; 1880-1, pastor of Harvard Street M. E. Church, Cambridge, Mass. In 1881 he was chosen president of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and continued in that position until his death, May 8, 1890. Dr. Cummings was of robust make, large of frame and of great vigor and endurance. He bore the yoke of toil in his youth, paying his own way in preparation for college and through his collegiate course. He is said to have been absent from college a large portion of the time, but kept up his studies and passed successfully his examinations. The qualities of sturdy character which distinguished his youth won the substantial successes of his mature years.

During the sixteen years in which he presided over his alma mater the scholarship of the institution was greatly improved and its resources were largely increased. Several professorships were endowed, and a fund was secured, the interest of which is used for the increase of the library. Several important buildings were erected among which may be named a well-equipped gymnasium, an astronomical observatory, furnished with one of Alvan Clark & Sons' best telescopes, a library building sufficient for 100,000 volumes, a memorial chapel, costing $75,000, which was erected in memory of the alumni and students who died in the war of the rebellion, and the Orange Judd Hall of Science, which cost $100,000, and at the time of its erection was one of the best furnished scientific buildings in the country. Under his nine years administration at Evanston the Northwestern University became the leading institution in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

He possessed great knowledge of practical affairs, and that unflinching tact and good sense that enable a man to co-operate with others in great enterprises. He rose to his high place in the Church purely by his merit and without any of the arts of the clerical politician. He never bargained for a salary, or, directly or indirectly, sought any office of honor, influence or responsibility.

Beyond editing Butler's Analogy and writing various articles for periodicals, Dr. Cummings laid no claim to authorship. As a preacher he was spoken of "as convincing rather than persuasive. His discourses were clear, strong and cogent, and usually enlivened by apt illustration and pathetic incident."

He received the degree of D. D. from Wesleyan University in 1854 and from Harvard in 1861, and of LL. D. from the Northwestern University in 1866. His 70th anniversary was celebrated in 1887 in the presentation of gifts and of congratulations from his friends.

He learned the blacksmith trade in East Montpelier, and soon after came to Montpelier, where he worked as a journeyman. After his marriage "he settled in Berlin, where for twoscore years he labored at his trade until a rheumatic affliction compelled him to give it up in 1871. He then took up the coopering trade and worked with his son, Alvin D., from that time until a week before his death, when he was taken with a sudden chill while in the shop, and never rallied.

"In 1884 Mr. and Mrs. Cummings celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, and the occasion was one fraught with much enjoyment. Mr. Cummings was a man of strict integrity and a worthy citizen. He was in some respects a remarkable man, having the reputation of being one of the strongest men in the vicinity, it being stated that in his younger days he did not consider it much of a trick to lift a barrel of cider by the chimes and drink from the bung. Mrs. Merriam spent the latter part of the summer with her brother, and left Oct. 31, being called to Worcester, Mass., to attend the death-bed of an only sister, Mrs. Mary Ann Town. The death of this sister seemed to have a very depressing effect on Mr. Cummings, and he never seemed in quite as good spirits after."—Argus and Patriot, Nov. 27, 1889.

The account of him in the History of Paris is as follows:

"In early life he commenced the study of medicine, but not feeling satisfied with the prospects which the profession at that time offered, he abandoned it and went into trade, for a time in the store formerly occupied by his father. He afterwards enlarged the building and fitted it up for a dwelling house and soon afterwards occupied it. He served as deputy sheriff for quite a number of years, and also in the Legislature. As a business man he was very successful, amassing one of the largest private fortunes ever accumulated in town. This success was achieved in trade, in operations in real estate and in loaning money. He was a man of plain and simple habits, and no one who saw him in his every-day dress would have any idea that he was the wealthiest person in town. He was never afraid to work, was frugal in his habits, economical in his expenditures and left his large property to his family." He represented the town in the Legislature in 1848.

557. HARRISON H. COMINGS (Chandler,⁷ Free,⁶ Jacob,⁵ Joseph,⁴ John,³ Isaac,² Isaac¹) married, Aug. 23, 1862, Addie B. Knight. In 1861 Mr. Comings enlisted in the New York Fire Zouaves, and after their disbanding joined the 17th Connecticut Regiment. He had been a member of the New York City Volunteer Fire Department since 1857.

While in the army Mr. Comings participated in the first battle of Bull Run, or Manassas, July 21, 1861, and was run down by a squad of cavalry and left insensible upon the field. He recovered, however, and although reported as dead rejoined his regiment two days after the battle.

He received a serious wound at the battle of Fredericksburg, and upon receiving an honorable discharge from the army went to Worcester in 1864, where for a brief period he was an inmate of Dale Hospital.

Jan. 6, 1867, he was appointed on the Worcester police force, doing patrol duty for less than a year. In the fall of the same year he was appointed captain of the entire force, which position he held for five years, until September, 1872. He was then made a member of the State Constabulary, on which he served until that force was abolished, Mar. 1, 1874. He was next made an officer of the House of Correction at Worcester, acting in that capacity two years and seven months, under Gen. Sprague. He was afterwards (Jan. —, 1876) chosen assistant superintendent of the Massachusetts State Reform School at Westboro, under Col. Shepherd, officiating in that responsible position until forced to resign through overwork and sickness in his family.

On the 13th of February, 1884, on ample recommendations he was made chief of police in the city of Malden, Mass.

He had the reputation during the two years following of being an efficient officer. But in 1886 he was asked by the new mayor to resign, which he declined to do. He was, however, displaced. He died in Worcester, Mass., Feb. 5 (6?), 1893.

One son was born Dec. —, 1837, and died the same month. He married second, Sept. 1 (Aug. 25?), 1881, Mary Phelps (Cowles) Hall, born in Oberlin, O., Aug. 5, 1839, widow of Dr. A. B. Hall, of Boston. She was daughter of Rev. John Phelps and Eunice Stanwood (Caldwell) Cowles, of Ipswich, Mass., and born Aug. 5, 1839, in Oberlin, O. He died in Woburn, Dec. 21, 1898. His father, who had conducted a large business in the manufacture of leather, retired in 1847, and in 1852 John B. Alley and Charles Choate became partners with the son, under the firm name of Alley, Choate & Cummings; after 1864, John Cummings & Co., until 1888, when Mr. Cummings retired.

For twenty-nine years Mr. Cummings was president of the Shawmut National Bank of Boston. He had been president of the Boston Board of Trade, the Shoe and Leather Association, the Commercial Club, vice-president or director of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Perkins Institute for the Blind, Massachusetts School for the Feeble-Minded, Middlesex Agricultural Society, Boston and Albany Railroad, Eastern Railroad, trustee of the Woburn Public Library, and chairman; a member of the Boston Society of Natural History and of the Amherst Agricultural College; a director of the First National Bank of Woburn, and trustee and president of the Woburn Five Cents Savings Bank.

His services as a member of the Board of Finance of the Philadelphia Exposition were of great value, particularly at a time when failure threatened it.

He was one of the incorporators of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and for seventeen years its treasurer, and a member of the Executive Board from its organization. He it was who stepped into the breach when pecuniary embarrassment was imminent, accepted a great responsibility, although loaded with business cares, and lived to see the institution on a sound footing and a remarkable success in an educational way. When he retired from the office of treasurer in 1889 the corporation voted to apply the name of John Cummings in perpetuity to the laboratories of mining and metallurgy.

He served for many years on the School Board of his native town. He represented the town in the House of Representatives. In 1876 he was elected to the Senate, carrying every town in the district.

With all his business cares he also carried on his farm, and added to it by clearing up pastures, draining wet land, and built around them enormous stone walls, the pride of the owner and the neighbors alike, and which stand as monuments of his enterprise. He was strongly devoted to natural history, and mastered what few even less busy people would have cared to undertake. The fine collection of specimens in the Woburn Public Library were the gift of Mr. Cummings to the city. For years the municipality was supplied with ornamental trees from his estate. In war times he took great interest in the soldiers and gave freely for their comfort.—Boston Journal, Dec. 22, 1898.

RELATED FAMILIES.

The families or persons mentioned under this head were almost surely from, or close to, the Isaac stock. But the precise point and degree of connection have continued to provoke enquiry.

ISAAC CUMMINGS, 1719-1746.

"Lydia How her son Isaac Cummings as she called him was born on ye 4th Day of December, 1719."

His will was made Mar. 4, 1744-5 and was probated July 7, 1746. "Being found in his Majesty's Service in ye expedition formed against Cape Britton." He gives "to my cousin James How, of Sutton," £63; same "to cousin Samuel How, of Sutton;" "to my cousin Joseph How, of Middleton, £20;" "to Church of Christ, in Topsfield, £18."

At a church meeting on Nov. 7, 1746, the following votes were passed, viz., that "whereas Dudley Bradstreet and Isaac Cummings, late of To., deceased, did each of them in their last will and testament bequeath to ye Church of Christ in Topsfield sums of money for the use of sd church, voted ye Deacon Peabody and Deacon Howlett be desired and empowered . . . to receive said money . . . that is to say, thirty pounds old tenor of ye Exr. of said Bradstreet's will and eighteen pounds old tenor of ye Exr. of said Cummings . . . and give receipt in the name of the church of Topsfield.

"2d. That whereas there is something wanting respecting ye furniture of ye Lord's Table, therefore voted that ye deacons be desired to supply or mend [mend] what is deficient and broken and to defray the charge thereof to draw ye money out of ye aforesaid sums and to keep ye remainder for ye church use."

By a codicil made at Louisburg while "weak of body," he remembered Mary Marshall who lived with her guardian in Topsfield; also "the poor of Topsfield."

ISAAC, OF LITCHFIELD, N. H.

An Isaac and Elizabeth Cummings lived in Litchfield, N. H., in and before 1746. That year when both Litchfield and Nottingham West (now Hudson) were incorporated, he petitioned to be set off to the latter town because he had supposed himself to belong within its limits. But when the surveyor's lines were drawn between those towns, a part of his land fell to Litchfield. The following is a copy of an inscription in the Old Farms burying ground:

"Here lies the body of Mrs. Elizabeth Cummings, wife of Mr. Isaac Cummings, who departed this life Oct. ye 23d, 1763, in ye 73d year of her age." Mr. Kimball Webster says that it is a tradition that this couple had no children, but that a negro servant married one Peter Blanchard, also colored and that the farm was given to her. They were in fact living on it within the memory of Mr. Webster, who was born in 1828. "Mrs. Lydia Blanchard, wife of Peter, died Feb. 19, 1822, aged 70" (according to an inscription).

There is a record of a sale of land by John Cummings to Isaac, 1735 (1754 also?), Josiah Cummings being witness; and Isaac Cummings is mentioned in the administration by Josiah Cummings, of his brother's (Eleazer's) estate as one to whom payment was made. Isaac and Elizabeth sold land in 1744.

LEONARD CUMMINS, OF LITCHFIELD, N. H.

Leonard Cummins is mentioned Nov. 20, 1739, by Josiah Cummings, administrator of Eleazer Cummings' estate. He sold land, 1742, in Litchfield, N. H.; at least he was of that town then. His wife's name was Jane and appears to have been of Dunstable. He died in 1758 in Londonderry, N. H. Joel Parkhurst was appointed guardian of the children, Jerahmeel, Rachel and Silas, the last under 14 years. The same was appointed guardian again of Silas, Sept. 14, 1769, Silas being in his fifteenth year.

CHILDREN:

- i. Jerahmeel, born ———, 1750; married Apr. 30, 1771, Deborah Kendall, perhaps daughter of John and Hannah Kendall, of Dunstable; if so, born May 13, 1751. In a notice of the Hon. Amos Kendall, it is mentioned that in 1807 he visited his Aunt Cummings in Windsor, Vt., who had two sons, who took their cousin up Ascutney mountain. In a record at Amherst, N. H., two children were born to Jonathan (Jerahmeel may be) and Deborah Cummings.

1. Deborah, born Mar. 28, 1772.
2. Leonard, born June 2, 1773.
- ii. Rachel, born —, 1752; is perhaps she who married —, 1771, Eleazer Reed.
- iii. Silas, born —, 1754. A Silas married Jan. 1, 1771, and had in Amherst, Hannah, born Aug. 18, 1774. One Silas married Widow Eunice (White) Hunt and had Ezekiel, born —, 1755, had 9 children and died —, 1803. She died Apr. 3, 1825. One Rev. Silas was in Rindge and Jaffrey and preached for the Methodists in Marlboro about 1835.

Leonard Cumins (Jerahmeel) married Lydia Spencer in Windsor, Vt. His age corresponds to the Leonard (2) above. For he died June 25, 1854, age 81. His wife died Oct. 18, 1850, age 80.

CHILDREN:

- i. Oremill, born July 25, 1796; died Feb. 2, 1834.
- ii. Jerahmeel, born June 20, 1798; died Feb. 14, 1870; married Hannah Root, his cousin, and had 7 children, 5 living in 1885. One Cyrus R., resided in Highgate, Vt. The father was a constable in that town, 1835-9, 1842-4.
- iii. Sarah, born Oct. 8, 1800; married Paul E. Jackson; had one child, Oremill, supposed to be living 1885 in New York. She died May 25, 1860.
- iv. Laura, born Sept. 4, 1802; married Loring Carpenter. She died Jan. 3, 1827.
- v. Leonard Spencer, born Feb. 15, 1807; died Feb. 6, 1836 (86?).
- vi. Lydia Jane, born Feb. 8, 1816; died Nov. 4, 1863.

Cyrus R. has been told that his great-grandfather stole away from Ireland in a ship and was concealed many days.

ELIZABETH CUMMINGS DAVIS (ASA).

Elizabeth of Dunstable married, Jan. 15, 1761, Asa Davis of Nottingham West, who died March 27, 1826, age 89. She died Nov. 11, 1822, age 86. Asa Davis was a prominent man in his town; Justice of the Peace; represented the town in the Legislature in the years 1777, '79, '92, '93, '94, '99, 1800; moderator of town meeting several times; town-clerk 1785-95 and 1801-7; one of the selectmen 22 years, and chairman of the board of selectmen 18 years. It is related that when he heard of the battle at Lexington, he was ploughing; he immediately unyoked his oxen, took his gun and ammunition and started for the scene of action. When he reached Billerica, he learned of the retreat of the British and returned home. Kimball Webster.

CHILDREN:

- i. Elisabeth, born Feb. 4, 1762.
- ii. Lydia, born Feb. 21, 1763.
- iii. Jacob, born Mar. 19, 1765.
- iv. Mary, born Sept. 21, 1769.
- v. Sibbel, born Feb. 17, 1772.
- vi. Altha, born June 12, 1774.
- vii. Daniel Taylor, born Dec. 5, 1776.
- viii. Olive, born Mar. 12, 1779.

ELIZABETH CUMMINGS JEWETT (JACOB).

Elizabeth Cummings [Betty in the Record], born —; married Nov. 27, 1766, in Dunstable, Jacob Jewett, Jr. Resided in Hollis, where he was selectman, 1773-5-6; soldier, 1775-7. He died Nov. 2, 1813, age 69, in Hollis. She died Oct. 13, 1831, age 86, apparently in Charlestown, Mass., where she lived with her son, Ralph W. The inscription is on the grave-stone in the old church-yard at Hollis.

CHILDREN:

- i. James, born Aug. 22, 1767; married Jan. 16, 1789, Lucy Farley. [A Lucy, daughter of Ebenezer and Betty (Wheeler) Farley, was born Sept. 31, 1768, and a Lucy Jewett married John Shed Nov. 5, 1797.]
- ii. John, born July 2, 1769; married Nov. 27, 1795, Jane Ames. A Jane Ames, daughter of Jeremiah and Jane, born, Sept. 28, 1770.
- iii. Jacob, born June 14, 1770.
- iv. David, born Aug. 16, 1773; married Rebecca Read. He graduated at Dartmouth College 1801; ordained at Rockport, Mass., Oct. 30, 1805, and pastor there 31 years; died July 16, 1841, in Waltham, Mass. His remains were interred 15 years after at Rockport, when his son, Rev. William Read Jewett, of Plymouth, N. H., preached a commemorative sermon. A daughter, Mary Appleton, married Rev. John Whitney. Wm. R. Jewett married Sept. 24, 1838, Hannah N. Coit, daughter of Joseph and Martha (Coit) Lester, and had no children, but adopted two nephews, one of whom, William Jewett Tucker, is now President of Dartmouth College.
- v. Elizabeth, born Oct. 15, 1775.
- vi. Lucy, born Aug. 9, 1777.

- vii. Ralph Wardlaw, born Dec. 8, 1779; married Dec. 14, 1825, Betsy Farley. Representative for Hollis, 1822-3. Selectman, Hollis, 1822.
- viii. Leonard, born Oct. 2, 1787; Dartmouth College, 1810; Andover Seminary, 1813; ordained 1833, pastor, Temple, N. H.; resided in Hollis after 1844; died there Feb. 16, 1862.

JOHN COMINS, OF WOBURN AND OXFORD.

The family which seemed very likely to show common ancestry with Isaac, of Topsfield, was that which sprung from John and Mary (Lee) Comins, whose children's births began to be registered in Woburn, Mass., as early as 1692. He was a soldier in the expedition against Canada commanded by Sir William Phips in 1690. He removed to Killingly, Conn. His name appears in Oxford, Mass., where he was town-clerk, 1722-3. At least eight children were born to him, John, Catherine, Jacob, Josiah, Stephen and James, between 1698 and 1705. His descendants became numerous in the vicinity named, particularly in the town of Charlton. Quite a number of families removed thence to Maine, to Greeneville, Parkman and E. Eddington in that state.

Elijah Comins, of the town last named, had in 1886 a record of 39 marriages and 105 births in this line. Among my own fragmentary collections are noted at least 190 births. Mrs. Electa A. Brown, M.D., Chelsea, Mass., made not a little investigation respecting this line. Among descendants may be mentioned the Rev. Mark A. and the Rev. Elkanah Andrews, and the Rev. Silas S., the latter at one time agent for the Home of the Little Wanderers, Boston; also Hon. Linus B. Comins, Roxbury, Mass., member of the 34th and 35th congresses. It cannot be claimed, however, that the immediate connection of this line with the Isaac descent has received any direct confirmation.

DOUGLAS, MASS., FAMILIES.

Douglas was incorporated in 1746. An Isaac Cummings was the first selectman in the town. Some Cummingses of Topsfield appear early there. Daniel, of Topsfield, bought land there, 1748. A Joseph, of Topsfield, bought in 1752, and Joseph, then of Douglas, married in Topsfield, 1759, widow Abigail Edwards.

On the records of Douglas appear Jabez Cummings and Johanna, his wife, having children:

- i. Abigail, born Sept. 2, 1790.
- ii. Ruhamah, born Nov., 1792.

Also Silas Cummings and Lucinda (Hill) who had:

- i. Bethany, born Oct. 11, 1802.
- ii. Submit, born Mar. 7, 1804.

Also Abel Cummings, said to have been born April 1, 1762, and died Aug. 11, 1840. The record of this family, Abel and Rachel (Carpenter), is as follows:

- i. Huldah, born Sept. 29, 1782; married Nov. 13, 1806, Jason Gould.
- ii. Ithiel, born July 17, 1788; married Oct. 13, 1814, Diana Winter; and had Rachel Ann, born Aug. 9, 1825; Chas. Lincoln, born Feb. 10, 1828.
- iii. Ucal, born Dec. 3, 1791; had 8 children. He died Nov. 28, 1869.
- iv. Joseph Newell, born Mar. 20, 1794.
- v. Scheharazade (Alzada), born Sept. 22, 1798; married Aug. 30, 1831, Asahel Ferdinand Aldrich, Millville, Mass.
- vi. Royal, born Jan. (June?) 17, 1806, in Douglas; married (cert. Uxbridge, July 19, 1829) Ruth Keith Aldrich, who died Mar. 1, 1845. He married second, certificate at Douglas, Apr. 26, 1846, Sarah Grace, widow of Remember Carpenter (nee Balcom), born May 14, 1810; came to Milford, Mass., had a large practice as a botanic physician, and died May 13, 1871. Uncompromising abolitionist and Christian. Had seven children.

The following is the record of Joseph Cummings, of Worcester County, Mass., of Scottish descent, said to have been born 1692 and died 1767, and said to have had a brother Jabez. His son was Amos, born April 11, 1765. In the records of Douglas one Amos was son of Daniel and Mary Cummings and born March 6, 1756.

Amos died July 18, 1848; married Rachel Amadon, born Oct. 20, 1767, and died Jan. 25, 1851. Removed to Vermont and in 1818 to Oneida County, N. Y. Their children were:

- i. Lawton, born Apr. 18, 1800, Bennington, Vt.; married Feb. 9, 1826, Polly McMillan, who died 1841; born Dec. 24, 1802;

- married second June 1, 1842; Lurana P. Hoard, born Jan. 17, 1804. Settled near Deansville, till 1854, then to Munnsville, Madison County, N. Y., and 1859 to Coldwater, Mich., where his widow lives. Nine children.
- ii. Jeremiah, born Mar., 1805; died Sept., 1868. Family in Wisconsin, among whom were Francis, Jerry and Edwin. The latter died and left a family in New York, among them daughters who married.
 - iii. Lucy, born Dec. 25, 1790; married Clark Burlingame, of Madison, N. Y.; died 1882 or 4 or 92.
 - iv. Zilpha, born Mar. 24, 1794; married Henry Danforth, of Ohio.
 - v. Hannah, born ———; married Job Herrich; died in Pennsylvania; widow removed to Wisconsin with some of his children.
 - vi. Lurena, born Oct. 17, 1795; married in Madison, N. Y.; died.
 - vii. Eunice, born ———; married Ephraim Davis; both dead; two sons.
 - viii. Alcerta, born ———; married Dr. Bugbee; dead; two sons in Madison, N. Y.

FAMILIES WHOSE RELATION IS UNTRACED.

EARLY OLD COLONY FAMILIES.

Philip Cummings bought land in Dartmouth, Mass., in June, 1687, and was constable. Elizabeth, mentioned there in 1706, may have been his wife. Eight children appear to have been registered there between Jan. 3, 1686, and Sept. 25, 1704. A John, whose wife was Martha, bought lands in Dartmouth as early as 1726. His will was proved in Sept., 1772, and he left daughters, Sarah, who married ——— Pettis, and Elizabeth, who married ——— Horton; also a son John and a grandson Alanson.

Alanson, whose wife was Drusilla Chase, and who was himself brother of John, of Swanzey, bought land there about in 1767, '70 and '74, and died in Freetown, 1830. There was a Benjamin, of Dartmouth, who bought lands in Swanzey of John there, 1786. His wife's name was Mehitabel. Possibly the one who resided at one time in Dighton and died in Oct., 1861, had children, Benjamin N., Lydia, Hannah and Levi L.

There was at Rehoboth a Joseph and Mehitabel, whose children were Lois, Elizabeth and Stephen, born 1738, 1739, 1741, and in that town apparently were Sarah Cummings, who married, 1740, Benjamin Joy, Sybil, who married Benj. Ormsbee, 1750, and Keziah, who married Daniel Ormsbee. A Josiah, of Woodstock, Conn., bought lands in Rehoboth in 1737; five children were baptized after 1744 in Woodstock. Sylvester, of Berkley, made his will in 1858, mentioning seven children.

STANDISH, ME., FAMILY.

Thomas Cummings, of Portland, Me., married there widow Deborah Mills. She had had, by her first marriage, three children. By her second husband, she had:

- i. Thomas Cummings, born Mar. 22, 1722.
- ii. William Cummings, born May 24, 1724.

According to tradition, William went west. Thomas¹ settled in or near Portland, and had Thomas² and William,² the latter lost at sea. Thomas² settled at Cape Elizabeth, Me., and had nine children, of whom William, who married Annie Jackson, settled about 1781 on Standish Neck, and had four children, of whom the eldest, William⁴, born June 20, 1777, lived at Cape Elizabeth on the old farm, having twelve children, the eldest of whom, Daniel,³ resided in Haynesville. A brother of Daniel, George W.,³ born in Scarboro, was the father of Frederick A.,⁴ who was Mayor of Bangor in 1883.

PROSPECT, ME., FAMILY.

Thomas Fields Cummings was born, it is said, in Roxbury, Mass., in 1741. Tradition says that his father came from the Highlands of Scotland in 1720 and was killed in the French and Indian War, 1755-60. We find that a Thomas Cummings owned the covenant in Milton, near Roxbury, July 18, 1742, and there were recorded there the baptisms of:

- i. Thomas, July 18, 1742.
- ii. William, Mar. 23, 1745-6.
- iii. Joseph, June 17, 1750.

What connection, if any, these may have with the Thomas and William just mentioned at Portland, does not appear. Thomas Fields, according to the family account given by Ralph D. Cummings, of Prospect, enlisted at 15 years and was at Louisburg when that place was captured. He was taken prisoner in Canada and served afterward, during the revolution, at Valley Forge; came to Maine in 1788, and settled on the Penobscot, and was an agent for General Knox; afterward was at Prospect.

Had three sons, Thomas, Alexander and Jonathan. The last went West. Thomas married Mercy Deveraux, of Castine, and had 4 daughters and 3 sons. He died April 2, 1879, age 81. Alexander married Betsy Partridge and had 10 children, dying Dec. 5, 1899, age 92.

AN EARLY IRISH FAMILY IN THE SOUTH.

John and Charles Cummings, presumably brothers, and Hugh, perhaps a third brother, lived in the South. They were from County Tyrone or Antrim, in Ireland. John married, possibly his second wife, Mrs. Jane Blair Endsley.

CHILDREN :

- i. George.
- ii. Thomas.
- iii. John Blair; married first ——— Miller, and second, Eunice, daughter of Robert and Rebecca (Cummings) Hunter, and had:
 1. George W.
 2. Newton A.
 3. Thomas Ebenezer; was killed in the civil war. He had a son, John Barnett, who lived in Yorkville, Tenn., and married, July 12, 1883, at Humboldt, Tenn., Nettie McAfee.

Charles Cummings was in the Carolinas and lost property in the Revolutionary war. He married Rebecca McMickle.

CHILDREN :

- i. John.
- ii. Francis, born 1752, near Shippensburg, Pa.; removed to the South; was an eminent Presbyterian minister at Bethel, S. C., and afterwards at Gainsboro, Ga., where he lived 25 years. His first wife died Dec. 10, 1790, and left eight children. One son graduated at Hampden Sydney, and another at the College of New Jersey. In 1791 he married second, Sarah Thompson.
- iii. Rebecca, married Robert Hunter.
- iv. Elizabeth.
- v. Jane.

A TALBOT COUNTY, MARYLAND, FAMILY.

William Cummings married Elizabeth, daughter of Col. Coursey, of Queen Anne Co. He may have had brothers, viz., Henry, who remained in Maryland, and Alexander, who went to Virginia. William had the following:

CHILDREN :

- i. William. His will filed in Edenton, N. C., gave estate to sons of his brother James, and to his sister Elizabeth.
- ii. James.
- iii. Elizabeth.

Either William or James, sons of William, had:

CHILDREN:

- i. Frances B., born about 1797; died 1828 or '9. A descendant of hers, Joseph H. Pullen, cashier of the bank of Houma, La., in 1901, was collecting data.
- ii. James.

SOME PENNSYLVANIA FAMILIES.

Alexander Cummings, from Belfast, Ireland, came about 1778 and entered the army, continuing through the war. Settled in Lancaster, Penn.; afterwards removed to Fayette Co. in the same State, where he died, aged 90.

CHILDREN:

- i. John.
- ii. Alexander.
- iii. James.
- iv. Robert, who married, 1817, at Uniontown, Penn., Mary White, of Scotch parentage; came to Mansfield, O., 1820, and had:
 1. William, Pres. Northern Nat. Bank, Toledo, O.
 2. Robert.
 3. John.
 4. Joseph.

The great-grandfather of Abraham Cummings, of Mansfield, Ohio, whose ancestors came from the North of Ireland to Virginia, was a pioneer in Indiana Co., Penn. He had a large family. David was the youngest of four sons in the Revolutionary war. Two of these returned to Virginia; one settled in Western Pennsylvania. David died, aged 87. David had George, who died, 1884, in Oregon, Holt Co., Missouri; and William, who was a pioneer in Madison Co., Ohio, born Feb. 4, 1809, and died 1880; merchant and farmer.

William's children were:

- i. George, who died about 1866.
- ii. David.
- iii. Abraham, born 1839; graduated Wittenberg College 1858; studied law; was in the civil war; wife died 1877; President of Mansfield Water Works in 1884. Three daughters.

Elisha Cummings resided on his own farm, easterly part of Chester Co., Penn., near the Delaware and Maryland line. One of his children was:

- i. Amos, who married Ann Cochran, born Sept. —, 1784. A son of his was the Rev. John Cummings, of Pennsylvania M. E. Conference, who married Sarah Taylor Hook, daughter of Rev. Alban Hook, of Chester Co., Penn. He had a son, Adley Hook Cummins, born Mar. 3, 1850, in Lancaster Co., Penn., and died in Oakland, Cal., July 31, 1889. Married daughter of D. H. Haskell and had one daughter. He had made unusual attainments as a linguist.

George H. Cummings, of Sioux City, was, in 1888, president of the Law and Order League there. His ancestor, of Scotch descent, resided in Lancaster, Penn., and died in 1778, having married Lydia Porter, of like descent. She married second, George Lands and removed to Washington Co. Her son by first marriage, born 1776, married Catharine Chambers, whose mother was a Buchanan, a sister to President Buchanan's mother. This son removed to Jefferson Co., 1828, and four years later to Tuscarora Co. One of his four sons was father of George H., of Sioux City.

INDEXES.

INDEX TO DIFFERENT CUMMINGS FAMILIES.

N. B. Following this index is a name index covering persons descended from Isaac Cummings, and following that is another covering persons who have intermarried with his descendants. The material relating to branches and families not traced to Isaac was not originally intended by the compiler to be included in this volume, and was added after the rest of its contents were in type; hence that material is not covered by a name index.

The figures here given refer to pages.
